A SIMPLE road sign may point the traveler to Manhattan and through the maze of traffic to the football stadium. Once here, though, the traveler sees other signs, more subtle in their directions. These signs still tell him, "This is Kansas State University, its campus and its students."

—Signs, obvious or subtle, bring memories of '66 to life

IN memory, at least, students' lives at K-State are marked by signs, dimly outlining the time spent here as a series of coherent incidents.

Some of the signs are obvious and easy to remember, as the first roommate. Others are more subtle, requiring an association to bring back the memories. Together they are the experiences that make University life here unique.

From the tranquility of Anderson's carillon to the harshness of Vietnam's Iron Triangle, from discussions of academic freedom to re-evaluation of individual rights—these contrasts are signs that students are becoming involved more with the world and the world with them. Our world grows smaller.

A few long weekends, their passing marked by sour stomachs and burning eyes, may melt into 100 just alike. However, a walk past the concrete that marks the burned auditorium won't diminish the memory of the auditorium. That memory is too unique to fade quickly.

This 1966 Royal Purple emphasizes signs—both those that say clearly, "This is Kansas State University 1966" and those that say more subtly, "This campus is a part of us and we of it."

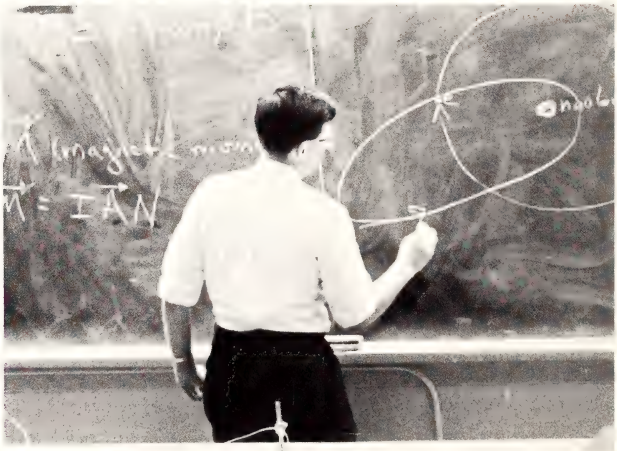
signs of thought



At a time which places prize on individuality of thinking, students have little in common except a desire to think as individuals. Whether it's the quiet kind of thought while alone in the chapel or the more frenzied kind while searching for a needed book in the library stacks, students show signs of thought—both as persons and as members of the University.

signs of fun and friends

STUDENTS might consider a warm spring day the perfect excuse for a picnic at Tuttle Creek or the Indian summer afternoon "just right" to announce a pledging. However, it really isn't the time or the place that brings students together. It's the friends and the fun encountered with them—signs, perhaps, that the vastness of life means something, after all. They will endure.

signs of growth

UNIVERSITIES must keep abreast of the world they serve. They must grow inwardly as well as outwardly. At K-State, signs of growth are evident—from the pounding construction of a new residence hall to the quiet contemplation of a student. Some changes are marked, new buildings beside old, but many are not as obvious. Students' unseen growth of thought is subtle.

FEATURES

A WHITE cape, the sign of a queen—she screams, and her friends surround her. She has not just won a contest though. Activities like this make a university more than classrooms and lectures. A campus is the world in a nutshell. Elections, performances, publications—all will help students become more than just faces in the crowd.

Motorcycle enthusiasts enjoy weekend rides on Manhattan streets and Riley county roads, especially those leading to Tuttle Creek. Many students use the gas saving vehicles, which have shown a gain in popularity, as transportation to campus.

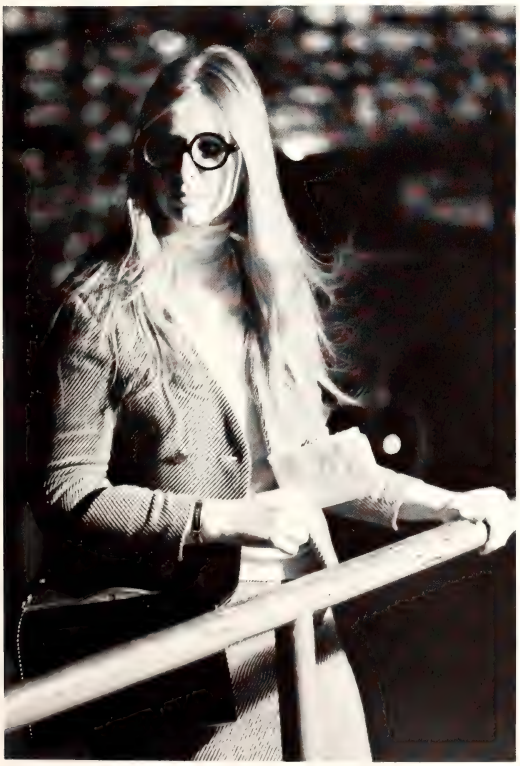
University life continues amidst tension, routine

Starting with a cup of coffee in the morning, a student's day is 24 hours of tension. It is the 1:30 class that runs for an hour and a half to eliminate a Saturday class or the 30 precious minutes extended to freshmen women for closing hours. Routine envelops the students who rush to catch the bus leaving each half hour while others stay in the library to finish a research paper or to read an assigned book. Afterwards, it is back to the living group with its set time for meals. Then comes a publication deadline, a design to be completed, fatigue and finally sleep.

Many men still participate in the once mandatory ROTC program although the governor approved a bill abolishing it.

As anticipated relaxation, Unionizing with friends between classes or during study breaks is welcome relief for students.

Styles for coeds range from the traditional look to modern ensembles as long hair again returns to popularity in 1966.



Students pause before entering the basement of Farrell library to share campus experiences or perhaps discuss career plans.

Trudging back and forth from car to dormitory door, women carry loads of belongings into Moore hall the first day of Orientation. After registration at the main desk, women saw for the first time their homes in the new nine-story building.

University enrolls 10,681, sets record registration

Enrollment soared to a record high of 10,681 students, an increase of almost 9 per cent over registration figures from fall 1964. The biggest increase was tallied in the freshman class. The University enrolled 600 more freshmen than during the previous year, a 25 per cent increase. Of the total enrollment more than 10,510 students attended full-time day classes while 162 were considered part-time students. Men students still outnumbered women in a two to one ratio.

Stressing academic achievement, President James A. McCain welcomed new students to the University at the President's Convocation in Memorial Stadium. At a reception in the Union following the address, students and parents met the president, administrators, deans and faculty members. Afterwards, many new students and their parents attended buffet suppers provided by the religious foundation of their preference.

Orientation introduces new students to campus

Providing an introduction to the University, Orientation acquainted new students with intellectual and extra-curricular opportunities available on campus. Developed by the Orientation steering committee, most of the program preceded enrollment of transfers and freshmen.

Sessions for testing, library tours and group discussions were offered during Orientation Week. "What Makes College Students Run," "I Wish I Had Known That Before I Went to College" and "How to Study" were among topics discussed. Freshman and transfer students also met with deans and counselors in academic major groups in the University's eight colleges.

Evening activities included living group orientation meetings, the All-Freshman Conference, four mixers and the Wildcat Warm-up and Watermelon Feed. The Freshman Talent Show and the Union Kick-Off completed Orientation.

Colleges confer degrees, enroll 3,500 for summer

Commencement, held only during June, was participated in by more than 1,000 students. Eight hundred students who had completed their schooling in January or July of the two previous semesters were invited to attend the June 6 ceremony in Ahearn Field House. Among these 1,800 students, there were 56 Doctor of Philosophy degrees, 62 Doctor of Veterinary Medicine degrees and 300 master degrees presented. Commencement speaker was Henry Heald. Heald was head of the Ford Foundation, the world's largest philanthropic organization. He spoke about the importance of the modern university in maintaining international cooperation.

With less than a one week vacation, more than 3,500 students returned to campus to attend the summer session. The short semester was directed by Forest Whan. Internationally known musicians appeared in five summer concerts. The Cats for Curtains campaign benefited when students paid a nickel a vote in the Collegian Campus Cutie contest. "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf," by Edward Albee, was the summer production at the Purple Masque Theatre.

Chosen on the basis of appearance in a Greek toga, Joe Krasinski and Susan Small reign as Greek Week king and queen. Candidates were allowed to spend a maximum of 50 cents on costumes for the contest, which was new to Greek Week.

Greek Week queen joins list of campus beauties

Queen contests were part of campus life. Numerous organizations sponsored competitions—many to draw interest to a project. New on campus was selection of Greek Week royalty, chosen at the beginning of the activities.

All major queen contests, including Homecoming, Royal Purple, Miss K-State-Manhattan and Military Ball, required candidates to meet requirements set up by an AWS queen's committee. All women's living groups were allowed to submit nominations for these queens. Major queen candidates were required to have 2.2 over-all grade averages. Barnwarmer queen, St. Patricia, and fraternity sweethearts were among other campus royalty titles for which coeds competed.

Beauty captured by the click of the camera was the basis for selecting the 1966 Royal Purple queen. Judging on formal portraits only, Gary Haynes, head of the UPI Photographic Bureau in Los Angeles, chose six finalists from among 25 candidates nominated by organized living groups.

Escorted by men of Blue Key, the six queen finalists were presented during half-time ceremonies of the Iowa State basketball game. Traditionally announced in the Royal Purple, the queen was introduced at this time by President McCain so that she might receive added recognition. The ceremony was the first time the queen had been announced at a game.

Mixing bright smiles with an armload of books, Queen Diane waits in front of a campus building until time for her next class.

Experiencing her first duties as a yearbook queen, Diane answers important questions for a Collegian news photographer.

Perky pigtails accent Diane's enthusiastic and versatile personality. Her older sister Susan was 1965 Greek Week queen.

Vivacious queen enjoys swimming, water skiing

Glitter from a royal tiara added sparkle to Diane Small, 1966 Royal Purple queen. Planning a career in elementary teaching, the blond-haired sophomore coed lived at Putnam hall and was a member of Student Education Association. Diane enjoyed swimming and water skiing as hobbies. She was the thirty-sixth Royal Purple queen to be chosen by a judge from formal portraits. Earlier Royal Purple queens were selected by votes from the student body.

Smurthwaite coed reigns at Homecoming festivities

From eighteen candidates, judges at Homecoming Previews selected five finalists for Homecoming queen. Following a week of campaigning by the finalists' living groups, members of Blue Key announced the election of Erma Jean Karr of Smurthwaite Scholarship House and crowned her on the steps of Seaton hall. Miss Karr and her four attendants reigned at all Homecoming activities, including the parade, game and ball.

Speaking at the Oklahoma game, Erma Jean Karr, the second independent queen in two years, thanks the student body.

Attendants to the 1965 Homecoming queen are Donna Hover, Kappa Delta; Patricia Peterson, Delta Delta Delta; Judith Davidson, Kappa Alpha Theta; and Janet Francis, Kappa Kappa Gamma. A student body vote named the queen.

Avery presents Homecoming queen at halftime

Traditional bonfire and pep rally ceremonies opened Homecoming activities for the campus with Queen Erma Jean Karr lighting the blaze Friday evening. Alumni converged upon Manhattan for the three-day weekend, and students were dismissed from Saturday morning classes. The "Sooner or Later" Homecoming theme was depicted by many of the 45 entries in the annual Homecoming parade, with first place in the two divisions going to floats built by Chi Omega-Sigma Chi and Smith Scholarship House.

Miss Karr and her four attendants were presented during halftime ceremonies by Gov. William Avery, attending from Topeka.

Mixed emotions reflect on the faces of students when Erma Jean Karr of Smurthwaite Scholarship House is announced 1965 Homecoming queen. Her crowning climaxed a week of campaigns by Smurthwaite and the four other finalists' living groups.

During Chore Night, candidates for Barnwarmer Queen line up sheep for showing. Candidates were nominated by each women's living group. Judges chose five finalists on the basis of performance of farm chores and answers to technical questions.

Agriculture majors plan Barnwarmer, open house

Selected 1966 Barnwarmer Queen, Sue Engle reigned at the Ag Barnwarmer Dance attended by more than 300 persons. Before the dance, candidates had performed farm chores and answered agricultural questions at the annual Chore Night eliminations.

"Animal Husbandry Today—Midway U.S.A." took first place honors among Ag Science Day exhibits, giving Block and Bridle Club its second consecutive winning trophy. Twelve other exhibits were displayed at the spring 1965 open house. Approximately 2,200 visitors, including 4-H and Future Farmers of America members, inspected the exhibits. Students set up the open house in Call hall and the Animal Industries building.

Twinkling eyes, a big smile and a sigh of elation reflect the feelings of Sue Engle as she is crowned Barnwarmer Queen.

Ag entrants calm their beef steers with showing sticks while the judges rate the cattle. Individuals were judged not only for showmanship of the animals, but also for grooming of the livestock. The Little American Royal climaxed Ag Science Day.

Students show livestock, enter rodeo competition

One hundred eleven students exhibited animals during the 37th annual Little American Royal in beef cattle, quarter horse, swine, sheep and dairy divisions. Grand champion showman honors went to George Teagarden in the Block and Bridle division and John Toney in the dairy division. The Royal was dedicated to David Mackintosh, professor of animal husbandry. He was faculty adviser to the Little American Royal for 30 years, retiring in 1964.

K-State students captured first place in five of eight events in the sixth annual rodeo held here. Eleven universities participated in the event sponsored by the Rodeo Club and the National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association. One hundred fifty persons participated in the contests in Ahearn Field House where Max Worthington was named All-Around Cowboy.

Wildcat pepsters boost school spirit for games

From football to basketball and track to intramurals, Wildcat spirit gained momentum through the support and influence of the cheerleaders, the pep band, pep club and the students. It was evident in the pep rallies and Homecoming bonfire, the banner headlines in the Collegian preceding a game and the scramble for tickets before scarcity raised the prices. Aggieville merchants joined the crusade of spirit with colorful window depictions of football and basketball foes.

Arousing the enthusiasm of students, Willie the Wildcat, whose identity is unknown to students, converses with a fellow worker.

Vets, home economists host college open houses

Nearly 3,500 visitors acquainted themselves with career possibilities while attending "Hallway to Opportunities," the 1965 Home Economics Hospitality Day. Featured in the exhibits representing 11 fields were food demonstrations, a model kitchen for the handicapped, fashion sketches of visitors and a nursery school laboratory. Activities for the day included a luncheon, tours of freshman women's dormitories and a fashion show of the latest collegiate wear.

Exhibits in surgery, radiology and feline pediatrics attracted more than 9,000 visitors to Veterinary Medicine Open House on Parents' Day. Featured attractions included a display about animal cancer and its relation to humans, an obedience trial dog show, a cutting horse demonstration and an exhibit of bacteria grown to depict a sunflower. Nebraska University's pre-veterinary medicine club exhibited pathogen-free hogs developed by the University's veterinarians.

Engineers, architects vie for Open House prizes

More than 7,000 persons visited the forty-second annual Engineers' and Architects' Open House. "Developing the Space Age" was the theme for Open House. Growth effect caused by misting plants with carbon dioxide was the winning departmental exhibit displayed by agricultural engineering. Civil engineering placed second, while the College of Architecture and Design won third.

In one exhibit, guides explained operation of the Triga II nuclear reactor. The American Society of Military Engineers displayed a Nike-Hercules guided missile and a six-story high Air Force Minuteman. Steel Ring, engineering honorary, programmed the Open House activities and presented awards.

Placed in front of the Union, the Nike-Hercules is a surface-to-air missile with a range of more than 75 nautical miles.

Convocation lectures stir students' views, opinions

Well-known individuals, including a Supreme Court justice, a syndicated columnist and a television news commentator, addressed student convocations conducted in Ahearn Field House. Each convocation was followed by a question and answer period in the Union lounge. Several speakers, whose schedules allowed, visited appropriate afternoon classes for discussions.

Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas spoke on "The Supreme Court and American History." The syndicated columnist and president of Random House and Modern Library, Bennett Cerf, reviewed "What Movies and TV are Doing to Literature Today." C. Northcote Parkinson presented a humorous analysis of the 'laws' of business operation, based on his best selling book, "Parkinson's Law."

Righteous Brothers head campus entertainment list

Concerts by the Righteous Brothers, the Back Porch Majority and the Bluemont Singers headed the list of big name talent entertaining at University performances. Students completed questionnaires at the Activities Carnival about their entertainment preferences. The Union's 40-member campus entertainment committee used the results in choosing performers. Combined attendance at the Righteous Brothers and the Back Porch Majority concerts totaled almost 5,000.

The Bluemont Singers, formerly a local folk singing group, returned to campus in the spring to present a program. Other vocal and instrumental combos, including Spider and the Crabs, were secured for after-game dances in the Union.

Cultural series presents play, classical musicians

Manhattan Artist Series and Chamber Music Series sponsored eight concerts featuring internationally renowned music talent. The two series worked with a budget of more than $13,000.

Professional groups hired by the Chamber Music Series presented four concerts for audiences composed of general public and students admitted at reduced prices. Performances were given by the Brahms Piano Quartet of Italy, the Vienna Trio and the Prague Quartet of Austria and the Renaissance Quartet. Manhattan Artists Series presented a variety of entertainment with a play, "The Subject was Roses," a baritone soloist, duo pianists and the Minneapolis Symphony.

Featuring two violins, a viola and a cello, the Netherlands String Quartet plays selections from Beethoven and Schubert.

Tri Delta-Phi Delt melodrama wins Harlequinade

"Mississippi Mishap," a take-off on a show-boat melodrama, earned Delta Delta Delta and Phi Delta Theta first place in Harlequinade. Theme of the forty-ninth production was "From Where I Stand." From 15 minutes in previous years, the length of skit performance was increased to 20 minutes. The number of skits was decreased from six to four. Along with these changes came the name Harlequinade, first named Aggie Pops and later Y-Orpheum. An audience of almost 2,000 attended the two-night performance at the Manhattan Municipal Auditorium. Two drama critics judged the skits each night before awarding trophies Saturday evening.

Chi Omega and Sigma Phi Epsilon won second place with their skit, "Back in the Saddles Again." The skit portrayed a saddle oxford factory approaching financial ruin after the Board of Regents banned saddle shoes from campus. The problem was solved when the factory won a contract to sell saddle shoes to the ROTC department. "Whereistan with Love," by Kappa Alpha Theta and Sigma Chi, revolved around a brainless ruler whose harem rose in revolt. To end the program Alpha Xi Delta and Alpha Tau Omega produced a version of the fairy tale, "Alice in Wonderland." The cast dubbed the skit "Malice with Alice" for the Greek competition.

Clapping, shoe-pounding and a walk-out of the U.S. delegation highlighted Model United Nations discussion on the admission of Red China. During the three-day session, student delegates reviewed disarmament and problems in Rhodesia and the Union of South Africa. More than 100 seven-man delegations heard a Yugoslav official keynote the first day's session. Sponsored by K-State for the third time, MUN activities closed with a delegates' banquet and a debate between British and University students on the feasibility of continuing the United Nations.

K-State Players produce Purple Masque stagings

Staging five dramatic productions in the Purple Masque Theatre, K-State Players opened the season with "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" The comedy, written by Edward Albee, was a satire involving two Midwest college professors and their wives. Wallace Dace was director.

Because royalty rights for original music to "The Waltz of the Toreadors" would have prohibited presentation here, faculty member Thomas Steunenberg wrote new music. Betty Norris directed the play.

The dramatized version of the Grimm's brothers fairy tale, "Rumplestiltskin," was presented before Christmas for Manhattan and Chapman school children. In order that all third through sixth grade students could see the production, actors staged it 10 times. The tale, by Charlotte Shortpenning, was directed by Betty Cleary.

Actors produce 'Luther' before sell-out audience

Staged before a sell-out crowd, "Luther" portrayed the life of the Reformation leader Martin Luther. The play dramatized the ambiguities of men's motives, intentions and accomplishments. Director of the three-act drama set during medieval times was Dennis Denning.

From the point of loneliness, a strange bond between a Negro cook and a white child was revealed in the classic drama, "The Member of the Wedding," produced by Betty Cary. The last production staged was "A Streetcar Named Desire."

Men's glee club travels, gives Mexican concerts

Traveling to Mexico to give six performances was the highlight of the year for the Varsity Men's Glee Club. The Binational Center, an organization promoting cultural exchange programs, arranged for the glee club's trip and the concerts in Mexican cities.

During the year, the glee club gave 27 off-campus performances and a concert in the Field House. The National Choral Director's Convention in Kansas City gave the group the only standing ovation of the convention after its program of Baroque and Romantic numbers. More than 1,000 representatives from every major university heard this performance. Members of the glee club in the past three years have included three student body presidents and a Favorite Man on Campus. More than 500 men auditioned for the 58 available positions.

Choir, glee clubs present combined performance

Climaxing Fine Arts Week, the Kansas State University Concert Choir, Apollo Men's Glee Club and Women's Glee Club presented a combined concert conducted by Margaret Hillis, director of the Chicago Symphony Chorus. Sponsored by the Organization of Choral Union, more than 600 vocalists performed in the presentation of Mendelssohn's Elijah. Concert Choir, under the direction of William R. Fischer, attended the National Conference of American Choral Directors Association. The choir also presented the twenty-first Christmas Vespers.

K-State Singers request U.S.O. tour to Far East

K-State Singers requested their fourth U.S.O. tour, a trip to the Far East. With five new members, they arranged a new show idea in which all seven men played instruments while the women accompanied in solo medleys. Proceeds from more than 50 performances provided 15 music scholarships. Extra shows were scheduled to raise money for the Margene Savage Memorial. Miss Savage was the reigning Miss Kansas and a member of the group at the time of her death in an automobile accident in May, 1965.

Specializing in music of the Baroque and Renaissance, the Madrigal Singers made an international tour to Monterrey, Mexico to participate in four concerts and two television shows. Directed by George Leedham, the Civic Orchestra presented the Christmas concert and accompanied the Chorus for the "Elijah" performance.

Board approves $60,000 for Collegian offset press

Appropriations for $60,000 were passed by the Board of Student Publications to purchase an off-set press for the Collegian. The new press will be capable of producing 24-page papers as well as printing in color. Published for the first time this year was the 112-page University Edition of the Collegian, which was distributed by mail to all new freshmen. The number of pages printed by the Collegian totaled 350 more than last year, and the average size of the daily paper increased to 12 pages. Mushrooming advertising outdated the former eight-page average.

Director of Student Publications, Jack Backer guides Royal Purple, Collegian and Student Directory staffs and personnel.

Leroy Towns and Connie Miles use a pica ruler to determine correct type sizes they plan to use for Collegian headlines.

Type for the Collegian is set by a linotype machine, operated like a typewriter. Each line of type is cast in hot lead.

In planning for the next day's Collegian, staff members use copy pencils, glue and a working knowledge of editing marks.

Journalism field trips polish writing techniques

Field trips to Minneapolis and Garden City gave journalism students an opportunity to improve writing skills under the guidance of an experienced newspaper staff. Using remodeled and expanded newsroom facilities, the Collegian staff introduced human-interest columns, student health and church news and special sections focusing on University problems and improvements. During the spring semester, the Collegian was distributed for the first time in the Student Union.

In competition through March, news and features entered in the sixth annual William Randolph Hearst writing contest earned the department a second-place standing among national journalism schools. Chuck Powers, former Collegian editor, won first prize for a story on his first parachute jump. In the fall, the department invited 300 Kansas editors for an Editors' Day session and was selected as a center for the national Journalism Education Association.

While on a field trip to Garden City, journalism students write stories under the guidance of professional newspapermen.

When working on Collegian story assignments, reporting students find the telephone an indispensable tool for interviews.

Summer journalists publish 112-page newspaper

Publishing eight weekly newspapers and the first University Edition were responsibilities of summer journalism students. Designed to inform new students of life at K-State, the University Edition contained 112 pages in sections on general information, sports, housing, activities, culture, academics and politics.

Listings of students, faculty and staff appeared in the Student Directory, edited by Sherryl Diller. Coverage included organizations and regulations and policies followed by University students.

Under the direction of Wayne Perk and Tom Haas, Collegian fall and spring advertising managers, advertising sales doubled over the previous year's. Approximately 25 students comprised the staff which serviced accounts in the Manhattan area. Salesmen received commissions.

Royal Purple and Collegian head photographer Jim Garver took pictures of campus activities and sports events and supervised the darkroom.

Compiling information and directing distribution are tasks of Sherryl Diller, Student Directory editor.

After standing in line for hours, juggling class schedules, and meeting with advisers, students near the end of the line at fall registration in Ahearn Field House. Here they write checks for the 1966 Royal Purple. Nearly 7,000 yearbooks were sold.

Royal Purple sales rise, yearbook adds 40 pages

Royal Purple sales showed an increase of 800 books over last year's total of 6,200. During the first three days of enrollment, 5,800 individual picture receipts were sold, bringing in a revenue of almost $15,000. By the time the final deadline was met, 7,000 books had been sold for $28,000. For the first time, senior pictures were produced in color. Increased University enrollment placed the yearbook in a new Associated Collegiate Press judging category for schools with enrollments of more than 10,000. The yearbook has been rated All-American by ACP for 30 consecutive years.

Co-assistant editors, Sue Brandner and Linda Solberg schedule all pictures and assign and edit copy and cutlines. Both coeds work closely with the R. P. editor.

Editor Carole Fry plans layouts, approves pictures and checks final work of her staff.

Yearbook introduces first senior section in color

For the first time in the 75-year history of the Royal Purple, senior pictures were reproduced in color. The Royal Purple became one of the first yearbooks in the nation to picture a student section in color. Receiving 30 consecutive All-American awards since 1936, the record of the Royal Purple was unequaled by any other university yearbook. The winning tradition was established under adviser C. J. "Chief" Medlin, who retired as manager of Student Publications in 1965.

Engineers send magazine to Kansas high schools

Issues of the K-State Engineer magazine reached more than 2,000 engineering students and almost 300 Kansas high schools. Aimed at reporting news of the engineering field, the magazine was published monthly with articles on both technical and non-technical subjects. Editor Lowell Moore directed news and feature staffs and also entered the magazine in a national contest sponsored by a college magazine association.

Touchstone staff reduces frequency of publication

Touchstone staff members began work early first semester and sold nearly 1,000 copies when the magazine was completed in April. The literary magazine formerly was published on a semester basis. Work chosen for special recognition in Touchstone featured short biographies of submitting authors. Sponsored by the English department to encourage creative talents, the inter-arts publication included poetry and short stories.

KSDB-FM radio station broadens news coverage

To bring more complete campus news coverage to students, KSDB-FM radio revamped station policy and added more broadcast hours. Campus activities, including Harlequinade and the Miss K-State-Manhattan pageant, were carried live by the station. Managed by students of the department of radio and television, KSDB-FM set up equipment in Weber arena to broadcast from Model United Nations.

All varsity basketball games, both home and out-of-town, home freshman basketball games and baseball games were also covered by the station. Dr. Alvin Workman was adviser for the student radio announcers.

Judging teams rank high in collegiate competition

Hay and silage, crops and soil judging teams were successful throughout the year in national competition. Participating for the first time in the North American collegiate contest at Columbia, Tenn., the hay and silage judging team took top honors. The competition was conducted in connection with a national grassland field day and conference.

Placing second in an intercollegiate contest which was part of the International Livestock Exposition in Chicago, Ill., was the crops judging team. The team rated high in seed analysis and ranked fourth in commercial grading and identification. The soils team, following a first place victory at the regional contest at Iowa State University, joined the Iowa State team in representing this region at the national contest at New Mexico State University in May.

Judges capture awards in intercollegiate contests

Representing K-State in national and international contests were the six judging teams of dairy products, meats, dairy cattle, poultry, wool and livestock. The teams traveled more than 3,000 miles. All teams consistently placed in the upper half among other contestants.

Evaluating products ranging from ice cream to cheddar cheese, the dairy products judging team placed sixth at a regional contest in Chicago. Ranking second in pork judging and high in beef grading, the meats team placed fifth in international competition in Madison, Wisc.

At the International Livestock Exposition in Chicago, Ill., the dairy cattle judging team finished behind four other teams in competition with eighteen squads. Poultry judges also brought home awards from the American Royal, while the livestock team captured top honors there. The wool judging team placed fifth in the American Royal intercollegiate contest.

Dairy Products Judging Team—Coach Ross Mickelsen, Kenneth K. Chesney, Paul E. Flagg, Jerald A. Kopp, John W. Toney.

ACADEMICS

STANDING as the proud and vibrant symbol of a rapidly expanding university, Anderson hall is a sign of Kansas State University 1966. However, the campus landmark is more than a sign of the present. Anderson also symbolizes the tradition and memories which have marked the 103-year past of the nation's first land-grant university. It was built in 1879.

University's role includes research, extension work

As the first land-grant institution, the University conducted research and extension programs and maintained agricultural experiment stations in addition to educating more than 10,000 students. Within the eight colleges and one school, there were 67 departments. At the graduate level, the master's degree was offered in 73 departments and the Doctor of Philosophy degree in 26 fields. A professional staff of 1,360 instructors worked with students.

Outstanding academic achievements included the Environmental Research Laboratory used for national research, the most extensive study program on wheat and cereal grains in the world and the first and only accredited nuclear engineering undergraduate program in the U.S.

President seeks speakers to discuss controversies

Encouraging students to voice political views, President James A. McCain appointed a six-member committee to invite speakers to discuss controversial issues so that students could base their convictions on information and understanding. The first speaker was L. Brent Bozell, author, lecturer and attorney. He had won national attention for his best selling book, "McCarthy and His Enemies."

Efforts to establish better communication between students and administration were emphasized by a series of Union coffee hours with President McCain. Students were urged to participate and evoke questions concerning current campus issues. This program expressed Americanism. It was the democratic way in action.

Brown leaves deanship, becomes vice-president

Filling a position left vacant by William Bevan, John Lott Brown became vice-president for academic affairs. Bevan, who had been on a year leave of absence, accepted the post of vice-president of John Hopkins University in Baltimore, Md. Brown had served both as acting vice-president and dean of graduate school after coming to K-State in July, 1965. A. D. Weber, director of the Office of International Activities, was also on special assignment to Andhra Pradesh Agriculture University in Hyderabad, India. Replacing him was Joseph Hajda, who had just completed a year as adviser to former Secretary of State Christian Herter.

A. L. Pugsley, administrative vice-president, served on a two-year chairmanship of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. Max Milbourn continued as presidential public relations assistant. Daniel Beatty supervised a budget of more than $35 million while E. M. Gerritz directed enrollment.

University Information consolidates news offices

Under the direction of Kenneth Thomas, University Information consolidated in one administrative unit all existing campus information offices to use personnel and facilities more efficiently. The extension radio and television division received a federal grant of $37,500 to produce a 60-second, filmed, spot announcement. The film, concerning the safe, effective use of pesticides, was distributed nationally.

Heads of the different services within University Information were David von Riesen, photographic services; Dean Kenny, University publications; Carl Rochat, University news; Paul DeWeese, sports information; Jack Burke, radio and television; and E. D. Warner, extension.

Dean of students adds Friesen, Frith to staff

In filling the position vacated during the summer by Ralph Prusok, Walter Friesen worked as associate dean of men. He supervised both fraternity and Orientation activities. Assistant Dean Thomas Frith filled a new job created to coordinate residence hall social and educational programs. Directing the over-all program of student affairs was Chester Peters, dean of students. Margaret Lahey, associate dean of women, studied innovations in personnel and higher education in New York during a spring semester sabbatical leave. Dean Lahey's duties were assumed by Assistant Dean Caroline Peine. Assistant Dean Theodore Heermance advised 500 foreign students from 57 countries. Operation of the entire division was centered in Holtz hall.

Rarely ever closing during the day, the library keeps its doors open during Thanksgiving and Christmas vacations. Library hours were extended 12 hours per week, opening at 7:45 a.m. and closing at 11 p.m. to provide additional study time for students. This program is beneficial for employed students and those remaining on campus during housing vacation.

Graduate dean becomes academic vice-president

Serving his first full year as dean of Graduate School, John Lott Brown was appointed vice-president of academic affairs for the University in February. Dean Brown served on a committee of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration while maintaining a research program in sensory perception, an area in which he has received international recognition.

Cooperation of the faculty in planning graduate curriculums led to the development of programs embracing more than one department. Doctoral programs in food science, probability and statistics and mathematics were authorized by the Board of Regents. Masters' Degree programs introduced were in fields of linguistics, modern and classical languages, sociology and anthropology, and political science.

Ag college, KU join to study water conservation

Established by Congress, the Kansas Water Resources Research Institute studied conservation, expansion of state water supplies, and the hydrologic cycle. Allocations for the joint project of the College of Agriculture and the University of Kansas reached $142,000 for the first year of research. Future college plans included courses for training in water engineering. Another project was the establishment of a charcoal brickette plant in Shepotpa. It was hoped that the plant would improve state use of the one million trees annually distributed by extension service.

Architecture college adds construction curriculum

Boasting the largest increase in freshman enrollment, the College of Architecture and Design added a four-year curriculum in building construction. The new curriculum, introduced at the first building construction seminar, was incorporated because of an increasing demand for trained building specialists. It included courses in structure, drafting and business.

Completion of a "heliodon" for experimental research enabled architecture students to test the effects of lighting on buildings at any latitude. Students also worked with a design problem involving a dock and enclosure at Tuttle Creek for maintenance of the rowing team's shells.

Arts and Sciences plan multi-purpose auditorium

Plans were completed in the College of Arts and Sciences for a multi-purpose auditorium with a music wing and facilities for lectures, demonstrations, drama and music activities. The structure, to be financed by a $2,800,000 state appropriation, will replace the auditorium which burned in spring 1965. Also proposed is a biological science building to have one unit for instruction and one unit for research.

Other college construction included a music listening room installed in Eisenhower hall for students in music, English and humanities. It was equipped with earphones and facilities providing four programs at the same time.

Arts and Sciences adds core curriculum advisers

During John Chalmer's third year as dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, advisers were added to the dean's office staff to provide advising for students in the general curriculum. The advisers helped students plan study programs for the first two years of college. A National Science Foundation grant in chemistry allowed the college to expand remodeling of Willard hall and to plan for a laboratory annex to the building.

Arts and Sciences Council members sponsored a high school senior leadership day on campus and worked with student orientation programs. A 1965 graduate of the College was selected for Woodrow Wilson and Fulbright scholarships.

Commerce offers classes to businessmen, public

Programs of specialized instruction were offered to students and the public by the College of Commerce, in addition to its regular University course offerings. Conferences and seminars were conducted to up-date the education of Kansas businessmen. Courses in small business tax planning and management met weekly. At other conferences, electronic data processing and the uniform commercial code were discussed.

More than 800 students were enrolled in business administration, accounting and secretarial practice classes taught by 28 faculty members and graduate students of the college. In an effort to encourage higher scholarship among its students and because of increased enrollment, the College of Commerce awarded four scholarships in addition to those presented by Aids and Awards. Emphasis was placed upon scholastic attainment rather than upon need in selecting recipients for these scholarships.

Completing the first year after its transition from a school to a college, the College of Education raised its requirements, initiating a program in which students must apply and be accepted for admission to the College. Applicants must have a 2.2 cumulative grade average, have completed two years of pre-education courses and be approved by the admissions committee. Students in secondary education must also have a 2.5 grade average in their field of concentration.

Education receives grant for vocational research

Boasting the third largest Student Education Association in the United States, the University's teacher education program encompassed approximately 21 per cent of the University's enrollment. This total gave Education more than twice as many students as the second largest professional group, engineering.

Grants totaling more than $309,000 were received. A research problem was carried on in the Paola school system with money from a $179,000 grant from the U.S. Office of Education under a 1963 vocational act. The two-year grant supported a work-study project for the students in a vocational course. Conducted by a University trainee, the project involved an inter-disciplinary approach to vocational education. Professor Raymond Agan directed the program.

Money received for summer institutes for Kansas elementary and secondary teachers amounted to approximately $130,000. Cooperating with the department of continuing education, the college offered summer short courses in the vocational teaching of agriculture and home economics to high school students.

Grants near million mark in engineering college

Due to increased government and private agency grants, graduate enrollment in the College of Engineering increased. The grants, totaling only $268,000 in 1963, reached approximately one million dollars. This revenue increase helped boost the number of students working for doctoral degrees to almost one-third more than last year. Undergraduates benefited from the grants through a better research program and staff. The percentage of faculty Ph.D's more than doubled since 1963 when there were 25 instructors with that degree in the college.

Cigarette sale ban brings slump in Union revenue

Due to the Board of Regents ban on cigarette sales, Union net revenue took a sharp decrease of $8,000. With an annual budget of $15.00 per student for the building fund in addition to $93,600 from Apportionment Board for Union operations, plans were made to expand food service and recreational areas to meet enrollment increases.

Center of campus activities, the K-State Student Union served an average of 10,000 students daily with its food service, meeting rooms and recreational facilities. More than 4,000 meetings, involving about 258,000 persons in student and professional groups, were scheduled. The Union Personnel and Research Committee conducted a survey to determine the number of students using the facilities, the busiest hours and traffic patterns.

Student committees plan Union activity program

Union activities were kept in working order through 10 committees comprised of more than 300 students. Hospitality, the Union's official host, organized a celebration for the Union's tenth anniversary. Trips and Tours arranged a ski trip and a cruise to Nassau. Personnel and Research handled application forms and interviews for committee positions, as well as compiling Union research. One survey studied the effect of the cigarette sales ban on the Union. The committee also published the Unionaire, a weekly brochure of activities. Movies, Sports and Recreation, News and Views, Dance, Campus Entertainment, Art and Harlequinade committees supervised other Union programming.

Union Governing Board and Union Program Council both acted as executive coordinating committees. Board of Student Organizations, although not connected with the Union, regulated procedures for all campus organizations.

Blue Key members coordinate Homecoming plans

Activities for Homecoming were coordinated by members of Blue Key, senior men's honorary. Selecting "Sooner or Later" as the weekend theme, the organization accepted 18 nominations for Homecoming queen and sponsored the Homecoming Previews. Queen Erma Jean Karr was presented at a noon ceremony in front of Seaton hall and later crowned at the Homecoming dance. Members of Blue Key also organized the halftime show for the football game and escorted the queen and her attendants during the bonfire and parade activities preceding the game.

Chosen on the basis of leadership and scholastic standing, the 13 members of Blue Key established a scholarship fund and painted victory signs for the Kansas University basketball game on windows in Aggieville and downtown Manhattan. Dean Chester Peters was adviser.

Mortar Board chooses AWS symposium speaker

Newspaper writer and columnist Norma Lee Browning was invited by members of Mortar Board, senior women's honorary, to speak at the AWS spring symposium. Cultural activities for the group included a tour of the Nelson Art Gallery in Kansas City, Mo. and a visit with members of the Kansas University Mortar Board chapter. In the fall members sponsored a scholarship banquet where four sophomore women who earned high grade averages as freshmen were honored.

With money raised from the sale of mums at several home football games, Mortar Board financed a University service project. Tapped for membership in the spring, members sponsored a breakfast with Blue Key and heard a member of the Peace Corps review her work in Guatemala.

Junior honorary hosts underprivileged children

Manhattan underprivileged children attended a Christmas party arranged by Chimes, junior women's honorary. Members were tapped in the spring of their sophomore year. They planned Parents' Day activities and ushered at the President's Convocation and at Engineers' and Architects' Open House. Chimes sponsored a breakfast for women in Mortar Board and helped Mortar Board with mum sales and a banquet.

The group served refreshments at the Homecoming dance and rode in the Homecoming parade. Transfer women were introduced to the University and to members of Chimes at a fall coke party arranged in their honor. Two controversial books also were reviewed for Chimes by a graduate student in the English department.

Joining 49 other happy members on stage, a newly tapped Sparks member is introduced at AWS All-Women's Night.

Sparks women usher, assist with Orientation

Ushering at convocations and helping with Orientation, members of Sparks, women's service honorary, completed their first year as a recognized organization. The 50 sophomore coeds were selected by an AWS committee the previous spring and were tapped for membership at the AWS All-Women's Night. A 2.5 grade average was required for membership. Formed primarily as a service organization, members helped women move clothing and books into freshmen dormitories and sponsored a fund-raising drive during the Christmas season to purchase selections for the carillon. Sparks also adopted a Manhattan rest home for the year.

Phi Kappa Phi members include national officer

National president of Phi Kappa Phi was a member of the local all-university scholastic honorary. Ranking in the upper 10 per cent of their class, initiates included one honorary member, Dr. L. Irene Putnam, and six graduate faculty members. Initiates were honored at a fall tea and spring banquet. The group tapped each term.

Business students tour firms, meet executives

Technical meetings with business executives were part of a tour sponsored by Alpha Kappa Psi, business administration fraternity. Members visited a brokerage house, a Federal Reserve bank and an automobile manufacturing plant. An outstanding business senior was honored in the spring by the College of Commerce group.

Hospital personnel speak about technology work

Personnel from Kansas hospitals told members of Alpha Delta Theta, medical technology honorary, what to expect in their future work. The group toured the KU Medical Center in Kansas City and shined shoes at fraternity houses to earn money for the Carl Dorf Memorial scholarship.

Special radio broadcast accents Christmas spirit

Alpha Lambda Delta helps freshman women study

As a tutoring project, members of Alpha Lambda Delta each adopted a corridor in the freshman women's dormitories. Working with Phi Eta Sigma, freshman men's honorary, members decorated for the Homecoming dance, "Sooner or Later." Both groups sponsored a joint initiation banquet in the spring. A list of books concerning women in contemporary American society was compiled by Alpha Lambda Delta for the Associated Women Students symposium. Members also distributed campus posters publicizing University Convocation speakers. Tapping both fall and spring semesters, the freshman women's honor society added members who were required to have earned grade averages of at least 3.5 for their first year's work.

Alpha Mu newsletters report milling research

Monthly newsletters were published by Alpha Mu to keep members informed of current research in milling. Along with other agriculture departments and organizations, Alpha Mu built a display for Ag Science Day. Requiring a grade point average of 2.9 for all sophomore initiates, Alpha Mu tapped milling students who showed potential ability in the grain industry. Membership also was open to outstanding persons now employed in the milling industry. New student and professional members were initiated at the annual Alpha Mu banquet.

Alpha Zeta contributes to 'Cats for Curtains' fund

Beginning the academic year with a smoker, Alpha Zeta later recognized new members at a spring and a fall banquet to which dates and faculty were invited. Members contributed $25 to the "Cats for Curtains" fund and were ushers at the annual Little American Royal in April. An active program of monthly meetings strengthened member participation in Alpha Zeta, an honorary for upperclass students in agriculture and veterinary medicine. Vera Rogers spoke to the group about the "Conditioning Response for Taste in Dogs." Other faculty speakers for Alpha Zeta were Dan Upson, instructor of physiology, and Ralph Kitchell, dean of veterinary medicine.

Angel Flight drill team earns national affiliation

Receiving national affiliation this year was Angel Flight, an honorary drill team and official hostess group for Arnold Air Society. During spring break, members attended the national conclave in Dallas, Tex. They earned money to finance the trip by selling candy during the Christmas season and running a concession stand.

Precision maneuvers performed during a basketball game half-time and in the Homecoming parade were under the direction of Patty Peterson, president, and Capt. Charles Tolley, group sponsor. Angel Flight members were volunteer workers for the Circle K bloodmobile drive.

Arnold Air Force cadets journey to Ohio, Texas

Arnold Air Society cadets journeyed to Dayton, Ohio in the fall to tour the Air Force Museum and Institute of Technology. Spring semester was highlighted by a trip to the national conclave in Dallas, Tex.

Sponsoring and working closely with Angel Flight, the society honored new personnel of the Air Force ROTC detachment at an annual fall tea. The military students constructed displays indicating new Air Force trends for the Activities Carnival and Engineers' and Architects' Open House. Activities were culminated by the annual spring Candlelight Ball for cadets and their dates.

School recruiters discuss teacher qualifications

Recruiters from Kansas schools reviewed the qualifications of a good teacher for members of Kappa Delta Pi, education honorary. With an aim toward promoting a closer bond among students in the College of Education, the organization worked closely with Student Education Association and helped sponsor an annual spring recognition banquet. Advised by Joe Loeb, several members of the group also participated one night each week in a tutoring program for underprivileged children sponsored by the First Congregational Church. During second semester, the group discussed articles in the Kappa Delta Pi Record and the Educational Forum.

Music honorary women help replace fire losses

Working with Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia, a men's music honorary, members of Mu Phi Epsilon contributed to a fund which helped two music professors replace losses from the 1965 auditorium fire. The women's music honorary ushered at University concerts and served refreshments at the Manhattan Artist and Chamber Music Series. With the men's group, Mu Phi converted a part of Nichols gymnasium to a student lounge for music majors. The women also co-sponsored the Feast of Carols and performed at recitals.

Economics students hear about business problems

To inform members about events in their subject field, Omicron Delta Epsilon, an economics honorary, invited representatives of the Federal Reserve system to speak on current economic problems. With the leadership of President Merlin Hackbart, the group also invited M. Jarvin Emerson, a leading Kansas economist, to discuss "The Office of Economics Analysis." At a Union luncheon meeting, members heard Walter Fisher, economics professor, review "The Econometric Society." The group was advised by Lamar Jones.

Home economists invite freshmen to Easter tea

Freshmen students in home economics were invited to an Easter tea by members of Omicron Nu, home economics honorary. The group also sponsored a spring tea for international students and for sophomores with outstanding academic records in the College.

Ruth Hoeflin, associate dean of home economics, told members of her work in family and child development at the Merrill Palmer Institute in Detroit and also described highlights of her trip to Nigeria. At the national convention, delegates discussed leadership and reviewed nutrition's role in preventing heart disease.

Pershing Rifles compete in Big Eight drill meets

Drill meets at Oklahoma State University and Kansas University included entries from Pershing Rifles, military honorary. Closely associated with the Air Force, Army and Navy, the group directed traffic at basketball and football games and marched in the nationally televised Loyalty Day parade in Cushing, Okla. Members of the tri-military organization also raised the flag at football games and formed the Arch of Sabers at the Military Ball. Advised by Lt. Col. Wayne Smith, Pershing Rifles marched as a unit in the fall and spring ROTC reviews and as color guard in the Homecoming parade.

Phi Alpha Mu narrows selection of membership

Membership in Phi Alpha Mu, arts and sciences honorary, was limited for the first time to women students enrolled in the College of Arts and Sciences. Formerly, students in the College of Education were also eligible. To qualify for membership a student had to rank in the upper 15 per cent of junior or senior students. Beryl Ann Shaw received the honorary's annual Margaret Russell award for the highest junior woman's grade average.

History honorary sends delegates to state meet

Sponsoring a series of guest lecturers and sending a delegation to the state Phi Alpha Theta conference at Fort Hays State College were two special projects of the history honorary. Other Phi Alpha Theta activities included an annual spring banquet and initiation for new members. Organized in 1953 to encourage the study of history, Phi Alpha Theta required members to be of junior or senior standing, with at least 12 hours of history, and have a 3.0 grade average.

Physical education group wins efficiency citation

For the seventh time in eight years, Phi Epsilon Kappa was presented with the annual national award for chapter efficiency. The men's physical education professional fraternity sponsored a free throw contest between fifth and sixth graders during halftime at a Field House game. Other projects included donating Christmas gifts to the Children's Orthopedic Hospital and selling K-Caps for athletic functions. Phi Epsilon Kappa required members to have a 2.0 average.

Phi Eta Sigma provides course tutoring service

Men's living groups were provided with a tutoring service by Phi Eta Sigma. Comprised of men who had earned 3.5 grade averages as freshmen, the organization toured the planetarium and were shown how glass laboratory equipment is made for the physics department. The honorary decorated for the Homecoming dance and distributed posters announcing convocations. Members tapped each semester were initiated before a joint banquet with Alpha Lambda Delta.

Chemists receive awards at spring honors banquet

Sponsoring an awards banquet in the spring, members of Phi Lambda Upsilon honored outstanding students majoring in chemistry. Undergraduate certificates of honor were presented by the chemistry society to the students with the highest over-all grade average in each class. Graduate honors included a scholastic award to a student with the highest grade average and to a student for outstanding research work. Directed by President Jerrel Anderson, members of Phi Lambda Upsilon also sponsored a picnic to acquaint new graduate students with the honorary.

Phi Mu collects money to reimburse fire losses

Writing letters to other national chapters, members of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia, a men's music honorary, solicited funds to repay several members of the music faculty for equipment and music lost in the 1965 auditorium fire. Approximately $300 was collected.

Phi Mu also set up a combination lounge and listening library in Nichols gymnasium for music majors. Music department faculty spoke at the bi-monthly meetings where members also performed musical numbers. The group ushered at the Artist Series and Chamber Music Series.

Engineers attend reviews for national examination

Review sessions for a national test giving engineers a license to practice in their profession was conducted by Pi Tau Sigma, engineering honorary. Ralph Nevins, head of the mechanical engineering department, spoke about his world trip at the group's initiation banquet.

Home economics women survey communications

Phi Upsilon Omicron programs centered around the topic "Mediums of Communication" included a milling department tour and a talk about communications through art. Members of the home economics honorary advised new students before registration.

Pi Epsilon Delta sells film tickets to build fund

Selling tickets to the International Film Festival helped Pi Epsilon Delta maintain an annual $50 scholarship awarded to financially help an undergraduate interested in theater work. Nancy Stone received a gold medallion presented annually to the Outstanding Player of the Year. With the aid of Wallace Dace, sponsor, Elizabeth Cary directed the activities of the honorary in promoting theatrical interest on campus.

Speech group furnishes word games for children

Children attending the speech clinic in Eisenhower hall played with games furnished by Sigma Alpha Eta. The speech pathology and hearing honorary provided word games to keep the children interested and to stimulate their speech. Membership was limited to majors in speech pathology who had grade averages of 2.5. The speech pathologists gave a Christmas caroling party for the advisers, heard state and local speakers at meetings and sponsored a banquet at which new members were initiated.

Military cadets plan ball, operate concession stand

Company "L" 1st Regiment of the National Society of Scabbard and Blade operated a concession stand at the Turkey Shoot. The men sponsored the Military Ball for which military science students selected a queen. Scabbard and Blade also presented a scholarship to an outstanding military cadet.

Requirements for membership included junior standing in Army, Navy or Air Force ROTC, a 2.4 over-all grade average and a 3.0 average in ROTC. Selection was handled by members headed by Lt. Col. Frederick A. Catrell and president Henry H. Marsden.

Spanish honorary works in Model United Nations

Participation in Model United Nations was a spring activity of Sigma Delta Pi. The Spanish honorary, one of 100 chapters in the nation, invited new members to an initiation banquet.

Knowledge of the Hispanic culture, a goal of Sigma Delta Pi, was realized as lecturers from Spanish speaking countries were invited to meetings to acquaint the group with the history and customs of their homes. In addition to having a 2.5 over-all grade average, members must have earned a 3.0 average in 18 hours of Spanish. As president, Margaret Koepke helped plan activities of the Spanish honorary.

Engineers, architects share in open house work

Wearing railroad irons around their necks on blue and white ribbons, pledges of Sigma Tau fulfilled an initiation requirement. Sigma Tau, an engineering and architecture honorary, supervised the selection of St. Patrick and St. Patricia for Engineers' and Architects' Open House.

Steel Ring operated as executive planning committee for Engineers' and Architects' Open House. As an engineering and architecture honorary, Steel Ring presented a $100 scholarship to a junior or senior in one of the two curriculums.

Tau Sigma Delta also awarded a scholarship, a $100 stipend to a promising freshman architecture student. Preparation for the state board examinations given to architects upon graduation was discussed at seminars.

Africans display samples of native arts, handwork

Displays arranged by members of African Students Association showed carved gourds, leather work, wood and bronze carving and examples of the national African dress. Displays were made for the Activities Carnival and in honor of African Unity Day and the United Nations Day.

Nine countries were represented in the African Students Association. Contemporary African problems and methods of integrating the African immigrant to the American culture were discussed. A film series showed areas in Africa and types of modern African literature. Africans also played on the campus soccer team.

Ag economists turn chefs to finance Topeka visit

Lunch was planned and served in Weber hall at Ag Science Day for the second year by Agricultural Economics Club. Money from the project was used to finance a spring recognition banquet and a trip to Topeka to tour agricultural businesses. Top scholars and an outstanding senior were honored at the recognition banquet.

Members also built a booth to show job opportunities available to agricultural economics graduates. Fall and spring picnics acquainted new members with activities, officers and veteran members of the group. The annual steak fry for agricultural economics majors was planned.

Senior delegates attend national AEC conference

Twenty-four seniors in Agricultural Education Club attended the organization's national conference in Kansas City. Of the more than 170 representatives, Kansas had the largest delegation at the two-day session sponsored in conjunction with the Future Farmers of America. Members of the club also organized an exchange trip with a sister club at Oklahoma State and planned a spring banquet to honor professor Lawrence Hall who retired after 40 years service.

Agriculture wives present Christmas card ideas

Ideas for making Christmas cards from waxed paper and kleenex were presented at a monthly meeting of the Agricultural Education Wives Club. Members brought other hobbies to show to the group and also learned to decorate Christmas plates. As part of their social activities, members invited their husbands to a barn dance and sponsored a Valentine's party and a spring picnic. Membership in the club was open to any whose husband was in agricultural education.

Farm mechanizationists study job opportunities

Completing its first year as an organization, the Agricultural Mechanization Club geared its programs toward possible job opportunities. Members of the club were invited to the annual machine show in Manhattan's Municipal Auditorium and built a booth to explain the differences between Ag Engineering Club and AMC. During the year, representatives of different industries spoke to the group on job openings for students who graduate in ag mechanization.

Society members review advanced chemistry films

Movies related to chemistry but more advanced than textbook topics were shown at meetings of the American Chemical Society. As an organization for students in chemistry, biochemistry and chemical engineering, the ACS sponsored picnics in the fall and spring to introduce new members to the activities of the club. Members also prepared a list of chemistry films and made them available through the chemistry department.

Architects declare battle, fight community ugliness

"War on Community Ugliness" was the theme of programs for the American Institute of Architects. Members visited two large architecture firms in Omaha and Lincoln, Nebr. and then viewed areas where architecture plans had been carried out. The group also toured the Sheldon Art Gallery to see works of Phillip Johnson and heard Herb Greene, national lecturer and educator, talk about "Fantasy Organic Architecture."

Company speakers offer chemical career ideas

Discussing the role of the chemical engineer in industry, speakers offered ideas for professional work to the American Institute of Chemical Engineers. Companies represented by speakers were Procter and Gamble, Munsanto and Celanese. In addition to monthly meetings, the men were responsible for a curriculum exhibit at Engineers' and Architects' Open House and attended a regional meeting at the University of Nebraska. The group also sponsored a picnic.

Designers' trip includes White House decor talk

During a field trip to Kansas City, members of the American Institute of Interior Design heard a representative of a fabric concern discuss "White House Fabrics and Decor." With proceeds from a rummage sale, members traveled to Chicago, Ill., for an annual field trip which included tours of a merchandise mart and art institute. The group also made posters advertising a program of the Kansas City chapter and heard interior designers discuss opportunities in designing.

Industrial engineers sponsor four-state meeting

Students from Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas and Arkansas attended a regional conference sponsored by the American Institute of Industrial Engineers. At monthly meetings, members heard employees from a radio and an aircraft company discuss the role of industrial engineers. The group also designed a booth for Engineers' and Architects' Open House and toured industries in Kansas City and Wichita to find prospective places for work. Directed by President Malcolm Rodenberg, members sponsored a fall picnic and honored industrial engineering students at a banquet.

Items donated for a rummage sale are carefully arranged by members of the American Institute of Interior Designers. With funds from the sale of clothing and ceramics and contributions of the art department, the club financed a field trip to Chicago.

Physics majors observe sound waves' movement

Using a vibrating wire and weighted vibrating strings, members of the American Institute of Physics observed the action of sound waves as their research project. "The History of Physics" and "Scientific Report Writing" were lectures given by local professors. Speakers from industries demonstrated new laboratory equipment and showed technical films. Under the direction of Richard Hunt and John McKinley, picnics in the fall and spring for physics department faculty, family and students highlighted the year.

Speakers, films introduce nuclear engineering areas

Lectures by local and national speakers along with semi-technical films introduced members of the American Nuclear Society to the field of nuclear engineering outside the classroom. As a departmental organization, the group participated in Engineers' and Architects' Open House and sent delegates to the national student conference of the American Nuclear Society. In the spring, members provided a farewell banquet for seniors.

Civil engineering chapter earns national recognition

For the eighth consecutive year, members of the American Society of Civil Engineers received a certificate of commendation for excellence in conduct of chapter affairs. The award is made annually by the national society. Delegates from the club attended the national convention of civil engineers in Kansas City and told the group of chapter programs and activities. A banquet and formal were among spring functions.

Ag engineers win award for Open House exhibits

Exhibits arranged by members of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers earned a first place department award at the Engineers' and Architects' Open House.

During the spring semester, members of the club traveled to St. Joseph, Mo., for an area conference attended by agricultural engineers from four other Midwest colleges. With the direction of President Albert Strecker, society members planned annual picnics in the fall and spring. The men invited industrial representatives to speak at meetings on career opportunities.

With sanding and cutting tools, agricultural engineers carve a model farm, terraces and waterways from a huge block of styrofoam. The finished display was used at Engineers' and Architects' Open House to demonstrate conservation techniques.

Architects study design, hear landscape problems

At a monthly meeting, the American Society of Landscape Architects heard a representative of a Kansas City firm review fountain design and garden lighting. A landscape architect from the U. S. Forest Service also discussed a landscape problem before criticising student solutions to it. The club arranged a display of student work for Engineers' and Architects' Open House.

Students present papers at engineering meeting

Representatives from area universities attended a regional conference sponsored by the American Society of Mechanical Engineers. Student papers on technical subjects were presented at the conference and winning ones considered at the national session. At the club's monthly meetings, speakers discussed the opportunities of mechanical engineers in petroleum and utility concerns.

AVMA students establish Dean Leasure award

Encouraging more active group participation, the American Veterinary Medical Association student chapter established the Dean Leasure Award. The award, named for Eldon Leasure, former dean of the College of Veterinary Medicine, was given to the class with the highest percentage attendance at the bi-weekly meetings. Featured at the meetings were lecturers including Dr. Don Spangler, current national president of the professional organization.

Two delegates were chosen to represent the chapter at the national AVMA convention in Portland, Ore. Two others were sent to a public relations convention in Urbana, Ill. Fall and spring dances attracted more than 450 students, wives and faculty. During the Christmas season, students and wives gave a party for their children.

Membership accounted for 100 per cent of the student body of the college with more than 80 per cent attending the regularly scheduled meetings. The student chapter sponsored Veterinary Medicine Open House. Theme of the event was "Veterinary Service through Education and Research." Open house was Parents' Day.

Auxiliary aids loan fund, donates hospital curtains

As a service project, members of AVMA Auxiliary contributed to a loan fund for students in veterinary medicine. With the leadership of President Carol D. O'Neil, the wives' organization also raised money to purchase curtains for Dykstra Veterinary Hospital and donated food to an underprivileged family in Manhattan. In the fall and spring, members attended dances sponsored by AVMA and arranged a Christmas party for children of auxiliary members. The group also invited husbands to four dances during the year and carried on the tradition as the first women's auxiliary of the national organization.

Cosmopolitan meal fosters Arab-American accord

As part of its program to improve relations between Arab students and the citizens and merchants of Manhattan, Arab-American Club sponsored a dinner at a local hotel. More than 300 students and Manhattan residents attended.

Advised by Leo Engler, members of Arab-American Club worked with other foreign student groups to promote better communication between foreign and American students. The club operated on a personal basis, requiring each member to bring a friend of another nationality to business meetings. With Mousa Mashal as president, the students from the Middle East helped with International Week.

Livestock judges attend Block and Bridle school

At work in the field of agriculture, Block and Bridle Club organized a training school in livestock judging for Midwest college and 4-H judging teams. In cooperation with Dairy Science Club, members helped plan the annual Little American Royal. Advised by Miles McKee, the group sponsored steak fries in the fall and spring.

Block and Bridle Club members judged livestock contests and participated in Sheep Breeders' and Feeders' Day activities. Dean Davis was president of the group which sponsored a spring banquet where awards were given to the club's most outstanding member and to junior scholarship winners among the agriculture majors.

Chosen for horsemanship and personality, one candidate for Rodeo queen receives help from members of Chaparajos Club.

Chaparajos rodeo teams defend Great Plains title

Defending their Great Plains championship, members of Chaparajos Club competed in five spring rodeos. The club also sponsored an overnight trail ride near Tuttle Creek and organized the University's Intercollegiate Rodeo for the eleventh year. During the fall semester, members attended a steak fry and heard a veterinarian discuss animal diseases. With John Todd as club president, the rodeo group planned a queen contest and a spring picnic, and invited speakers to discuss horsemanship and rodeo activities.

Chinese extend welcome, sponsor sports program

To welcome new Chinese students to the campus, members of Chinese Student Association planned a reception each semester in the Wesley Foundation center. Under the direction of President David Lue, the club participated in intramural basketball and also provided table tennis, dancing, badminton and other games at weekly gatherings. During the year, members presented several Chinese movies in the Union Little Theater and planned parties and picnics.

Circle K recruits donors in record blood drive

Recruiting more than 550 blood donors first semester, members of Circle K sponsored the most successful blood drive at any Kansas college or university. Establishment of the blood bank required about 1,000 man hours each semester. Members visited living groups and presented a film and talk about the Red Cross program.

Donating blood first semester, volunteers recruited by Circle K give more pints than any other Kansas college or university.

Future doctors, dentists tour area medical school

While attending Pre-Med Day, members of Clinic Club toured the Kansas University Medical School and heard talks on professional school curriculums. The group viewed movies on medical education and spoke with persons in the medical and dentistry fields. Hoping to inform younger students about career possibilities, members invited men from area schools to discuss medical and dental programs. Clinic Club celebrated its twenty-fifth anniversary.

Collegiate 4-H members judge County Club Days

Judges for 4-H County Club Days came from the membership of Collegiate 4-H Club. For the fourth consecutive year, the club operated a food booth at the Hutchinson State Fair and used the proceeds to sponsor an all-campus mixer. Directed by President Ronald Jones, the club published the magazine, "4-H in Review," and presented a monthly radio program which described highlights of area 4-H work. Members also helped at the 4-H Round-Up in Manhattan.

In cooperation with the Kansas 4-H Foundation, members of Collegiate 4-H prepare a magazine summarizing the year's 4-H activities. More than 100 students sell advertising, write articles and do editing work on the annual fall publication.

Congressmen, candidates speak at CYR meetings

Chester Mize and Robert Dole were two of several Kansas congressmen to speak at meetings of Collegiate Young Republicans. Mize reported on the work of the Eighty-Ninth Congress, and Dole spoke of the need for reorganization within the Republican party. Students in the political organization also heard talks by candidates campaigning for state office. A trip to the state house in Topeka gave CYR members an opportunity to hear congressional debate on state reapportionment of voting districts.

Two all-University dances were sponsored during the year by Collegiate Young Republicans, the first after the Colorado football game in October and the second in February. As CYR queen, Anne Tuggle welcomed Sen. Everett Dirksen for a lecture address and represented the club at a state convention.

Variety show proceeds go to United Fund drive

Proceeds from an international variety show were donated by members of Cosmopolitan Club to the Manhattan United Fund drive. Featuring a variety of American and foreign dance numbers, an international dance show was attended by more than 500 persons. The oldest organization of its kind at the University, Cosmopolitan Club also presented a coin and stamp show with displays of coins and stamps from many countries. President Intesar Zaidi directed the Feast of Nations which featured foreign cuisine.

Dairy group participates in Little American Royal

Little American Royal activities were planned by Dairy Science Club in cooperation with Block and Bridle Club. With the leadership of President Carroll Campbell, the group also built a booth for Ag Science Day and participated in activities during Homecoming week. Members of the organization sponsored a steak fry in the fall and a chili feed during second semester. Advised by Harold Roberts and James Morrill, the club raised money by serving food at the state meeting of the Holstein Fresian Association.

Dames discuss problems, sponsor needy family

"Preparing Your Child for School," "Cancer and Women" and "Psychological Problems of Young Marrieds" were topics discussed at monthly meetings of Dames Club. Founded in 1954 for married women students and wives of students, the organization also sponsored a needy family at Christmas and sent service workers to the Wharton Manor. A reception was given by the group for wives of University deans.

Spring social functions included a dance and a pizza party for members and their husbands. In May, a banquet and honorary graduation exercises were given by Dames Club for wives of men who were receiving degrees.

Entomology contributions provide educational fund

Contributions from members of Entomology Club were added to proceeds from a rummage sale to provide an educational trust fund for the son of a graduate student who died of cancer.

On a field trip to the fossil beds near Elmo, members of Entomology Club excavated layers of limestone for later inspection in University facilities. The organization also sponsored a Christmas party and spring and fall picnics for members and their families. Members helped coordinate plans for entomology seminars. During the fall semester, a representative of a national museum in Washington, D.C. talked to students about taxonomy of insects and butterflies.

Home economics group offers day care service

Day care service for Manhattan families was provided by members of the Family and Child Development Club. One of nine interest groups of the Home Economics Council, the club volunteered service at a nursery for handicapped children, directed weekly tutoring sessions and participated in council projects.

Student pilots purchase Cessna instruction planes

Purchasing two new airplanes, members of Flying Club traveled to Oklahoma for a "fly-in" with other Big Eight schools. At monthly meetings which adviser Clyde Wassom helped plan, the 36 student pilots discussed the club's new Cessna 150 Trainer and Cessna 182 Skylane. Members also reviewed safety programs.

Forensic Union competes in out-of-state tourneys

Forensic Union debaters journeyed to tournaments at the University of Chicago, the University of Redlands in California, Iowa State University and Emporia State Teachers College. Activities of Forensic Union, organized as a group in 1956, were open to students interested in debate and forensics competition.

Led by President Sheryl Etling and faculty sponsor Ted Barnes, members entertained debaters from Great Britain and the University of Kansas on campus for inter-squad competition.

Swimmers execute skills, give annual water show

Demonstrating their ability in synchronized swimming, members of Frog Club were chosen at fall try-outs judged by a Frog Club executive committee. Under the direction of club president Eugene Smith, committee members ranked applicants on their skills in the front, back, side and breast strokes and the porpoise and dolphin strokes. At their spring synchronized swimming production, the swimmers performed solos, duets and triplets. The program climaxed 15-20 hours of practice on each number.

Language students gain insight of tradition, culture

Group discussion, films and slides introduced members of French Club to the French culture and people. Completing its second year as a recognized organization, the group planned a Christmas party and picnic.

Members of German Club welcomed German exchange students to American college life by inviting them into their homes and planning trips to points of interest in Kansas. A Christmas party featured traditional carols, an Advent wreath, St. Nikolaus and German Christmas cookies. Movies from Germany, a spring masquerade party with folk songs and dances and a spring picnic acquainted club members with German culture and provided them an opportunity to improve language proficiency.

Completing its first full year as a recognized organization, the group for students from Spanish speaking countries sponsored radio programs about the culture of Latin America.

Milling delegates attend Chicago bakery meeting

Students representing Milling Association went to Chicago in March for a national convention of the American Society of Bakery Engineers. Advised by John A. Johnson, members of the association also participated in the twenty-first annual Formula Feed Conference in January and worked on displays for an Ag Science Day exhibit.

Music educators sponsor concert, Christmas party

Sponsoring a benefit concert in the fall, members of the Music Educators National Conference raised money for the Varsity Glee Club's trip to Mexico. During first semester the group heard lectures about different areas of the music education program and arranged a Christmas party for music students and faculty. Directed by President Martha Sanders and Morris Hayes, the music education majors attended a five-day national convention in Kansas City to highlight activities second semester.

Future nurses volunteer Student Health service

Twenty workers from the Nursing Club volunteered their time at Student Health and also provided a magazine subscription for use by patients. With activities planned by President Mary Lipper, the women toured the University of Kansas Medical Center in November and in the spring visited the Capper Foundation, an institution for handicapped children in Topeka. Martha Pitel, chairman of nursing education, spoke to the prospective registered nurses about new curriculum revisions in the nursing school program.

Off-campus coeds finish high in quiz competition

Five members of Off-Campus Women advanced to the semi-final rounds of fall Quiz Bowl competition. Under the sponsorship of Caroline Peine, assistant dean of students, the 30-member organization took part in the Activities Carnival, caroled at local rest homes during the Christmas season and planned a Valentines' Day formal. Sharon Whitley, a member of Off-Campus Women, was chosen Miss Navy by the local Naval Reserve. Requiring a 2.2 grade average for the membership of single undergraduate women living off-campus, the organization teamed with the Naval Reserve to build a Homecoming float.

Orchesis earns tuition by showing dance films

Providing a member's tuition fee to a summer dance school was a major project of Orchesis, a modern dance club. The group raised money for the project by showing modern dance films to students and Manhattan residents.

President Susan Mann directed dances at local civic clubs and solo and group numbers at the annual modern dance concert in February. Members attended a Kansas University dance concert, decorated a car for the Homecoming parade and maintained a club booth at the Activities Carnival. Established in 1920, the group was sponsored by Martha Kellstrom.

Pakistan, Iran provide foreign program topics

Presenting the Pakistan Festival, hosting friendship parties and participating in United Nations Day, World Community Day, Feast of Nations and Model United Nations were Pakistan Association projects. Persian Association sponsored talks about current affairs in Iran, education in Iran as compared to that in American and religions that originated in Iran. Members celebrated at the Iranian New Year's Eve Party.

Student ambassadors see Europe on summer tour

Three K-State students traveled abroad during the summer on the national People-to-People Student Abroad program. The 500 participants were tagged "student ambassadors" and stayed with European families. The organization also encouraged its members to invite foreign students to their homes to spend vacations. People-to-People sponsored field trips to Topeka, the art colony in Lindsborg and the Eisenhower museum.

Phems women sponsor physical education mixer

Men physical education majors were entertained by Phems for a fall physical education mixer. The mixer has been an annual project sponsored alternately by women physical education majors in Phems and the men. Directed by President Patsy Meek, the 70-woman organization also sponsored a fall picnic to acquaint freshmen and transfer students with physical education activities. Members attended a party in December and heard Tex Winter, basketball coach, speak at a spring meeting. For the senior banquet, Phems presented a senior will and prophecy and installed new officers.

Agriculture alums visit Homecoming barbecue

Agriculture graduates attended a chicken barbecue planned by members of Poultry Science Club during Homecoming weekend. The Homecoming barbecue was one of several sponsored by the club to raise money for a three-day trip to poultry industries in Arkansas. At meetings Kansas poultryman Eustis Combs discussed the poultry business and Duane Acker, director of resident instruction for agriculture, reviewed the importance of club membership in preparing for employment. Inactive since 1962, Poultry Science Club was reorganized this year with a membership of 35 agriculture majors.

Club considers freshmen for veterinary scholarship

First year veterinary medicine students were considered for a $100 scholarship offered by members of Pre-Veterinary Medical Club. With more than 300 members, the organization sponsored a booth for the Veterinary Medicine Open House in conjunction with a sister club at Nebraska University.

The group scheduled a winter dance featuring D' Tree Toads and heard Miles McKee, assistant professor of animal husbandry, discuss the history of shorthorn cattle. Jacob Mosier, head of surgery and medicine, reviewed career opportunities in veterinary medicine, and Edwin Frick, former head of surgery and medicine, discussed the handling of small animals. Members of the club also saw a film discussing the history of hoof and mouth disease in livestock.

Foreigners, Americans team for soccer contests

In its fourth year as a recognized organization, Soccer Club had a membership of seven American and twenty-nine foreign students. Captained by Jesse Akinokun, the soccer squad played three games in the fall and scheduled several games for spring semester.

In the fall Park College handed the squad a 4-2 loss, and Kansas University downed the team 6-2. A game with the Kansas City Internationals ended in a 2-2 tie. With Howard Fox as president and Laureston Withee as adviser, members planned a four-team invitational tournament for the spring and asked the athletic department to recognize soccer as a minor University sport.

Begun by a group of foreign students, Soccer Club was open to all male students. Members provided training for interested persons.

Lectures, tours highlight military engineers' year

Created to form an association between professional military engineering officers and their civilian counterparts, the Society of American Military Engineers programmed activities including lectures by prominent engineers in both civil and military areas. Members also toured engineering facilities and met with the greater Kansas City and Kansas University chapters.

Students learn skydiving, canopy handling method

Interest in skydiving prompted several students to organize the Sport Parachute Club, which completed its first year as an organization. Training and practice in the techniques of free-falling and canopy handling were group activities under the leadership of club president, John Klein, and faculty sponsor, Capt. Burton Eddy. Plans included meets with other universities.

SEA enlists record number of future teachers

With the largest enrollment of its history, Student Education Association sponsored programs toreview the problems of future teachers. In the fall members invited new students to an orientation meeting and heard Judge Malcolm G. Copeland discuss delinquency in the community. A demonstration class on teaching blind children was presented by the Kansas School of the Blind, and Dr. Lester Kirkendall of Oregon State University reviewed the teacher's role in sex education. SEA also sponsored the annual Kansas high school Future Teachers of America convention.

Catholic students sponsor regional Newman meet

Sponsoring a regional convention, members of Newman Club had the opportunity to meet Catholic students attending school in other parts of Kansas. President Charles Badrick was elected president of the national organization and was honored by the local club at a dance and banquet. Badrick traveled to the Caribbean Islands for the World Assembly of Youth.

Members participated in discussions with the Wesley Foundation and the Lutheran Student Association and also sponsored birthday parties for old folks at Wharton and Parkview Manors. Sunday meetings, members studied Catholicism.

Methodist dance group prepares for European trip

During Thanksgiving, Christmas and Easter vacations, members of Wesley Foundation Liturgical Dance Choir gave performances in Kansas towns. The Methodist interpretative dancers also made weekend trips in the Kansas area as part of the ground work for a European peace mission scheduled for the summer of 1967. Twelve dancers are expected to make the trip.

Several members of Wesley Foundation attended a United Nations seminar in New York City, N.Y. during spring break. The group heard delegates discuss the United States foreign policy in Southeast Asia and also visited Washington, D.C. Under the direction of President Richard Brown, Wesley Foundation sponsored Sunday evening speakers and arranged weekend retreats.

As part of its education program, Sigma Theta Epsilon studied the book, "Acts, Then and Now." The Methodist men met for monthly supper meetings at the Methodist student center and also helped the Wesley Foundation by doing yardwork near the student center.

HOUSING

CONTINUING construction of new dormitories and apartment buildings emphasizes the rising campus population, but the multi-storied stone and steel structures cannot say "Here is home" quite the way Putnam, Boyd and Van Zile do. Neither can they beckon with a special personality the way a fraternity house or a leaky basement room can recall memories.

Racing around obstacles and gulping down pie, pudding or a coke without dismounting at each stop proves to be somewhat messy for Greek Week contestants. A sorority and fraternity member made up each team entered in the contest.

Fraternities, sororities host Greek Week games

Dress-up day replaced the annual sweatshirt day during Greek Week as Interfraternity and Panhellenic Councils made major revisions in the week's activities. Also included during the week were exchange dinners, the traditional banquet and four open house parties at fraternities with transportation there by hayrack. Susan Small and Joe Krasinski were crowned Greek Week queen and king in ceremonies preceding the Greek games in front of Anderson hall.

Racial and religious discrimination in living groups on state college and university campuses was prohibited by a resolution passed by the Board of Regents. Greek houses were asked to sign a pledge supporting the decision.

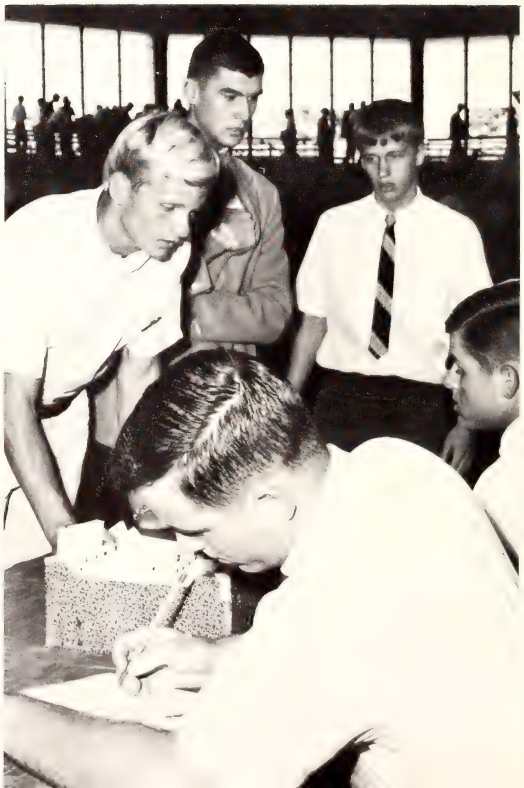
Tension and excitement mount as freshmen and upperclass women attend their first open house party during formal rush.

Signing up dates with the eight houses rushees were allowed to visit and rearranging conflicting dates begins formal rush.



Fraternities pledge men during new summer rush

Rushing during the summer months and the five days of Rush Week, fraternities pledged an all-time high of 461 men. Sororities, which rushed only during Rush Week, pledged 333 women. The total was three fewer than last year, even though 25 more women went through rush. Sizes of the 11 sorority pledge classes ranged from 24 to 38. Among 24 fraternities the largest pledge class contained 28 men.

This was the first year men could officially pledge Greek organizations between July 1 and August 23. Summer rush filled 300 house vacancies. Sororities did not conduct a summer rush program. Freshman women could pledge only during Rush Week and had to rank in the upper 50 per cent of their high school graduating classes. During five days of formal rush, sororities presented skits dramatizing the values and goals considered important by each women's group.

Five days of house skits, tours and rush parties culminate on the sixth afternoon of formal Rush Week when hopeful rushees receive invitations to pledge.

Amidst tears and shouts, Chi Omega actives embrace new pledges arriving after receiving bids. Many sororities introduce pledges to fraternity men at yell-ins.

Greek councils promote scholarship, activities

Acting as coordinating bodies for fraternal activities, Junior Panhellenic Council along with Interfraternity Pledge Council exchanged ideas and promoted University scholarship and activity interest among the Greeks. Both fraternal organizations, whose members were selected from Greek pledge classes, helped with the American Heart Fund Drive.

Clovia member receives national 4-H recognition

As a national 4-H winner in foods and nutrition, Clovia member Karolyn Kellogg was awarded a trip to the national 4-H Congress in Chicago, Ill. and a semester scholarship. Five members were recipients of national Union Pacific 4-H scholarships. The women, all members of Collegiate 4-H, participated in Omicron Nu, SEA, Alpha Lambda Delta, Home Economics Council, the Honors Program, Kappa Delta Pi and Phi Upsilon Omicron.

Delay in construction of a new house slated to begin in September 1965 allowed for expansion of plans from accommodations for 50 women to room for 62 women. Construction is planned to begin in September 1966.

Clovia members served as hostesses for high school students at Home Economics Hospitality Day. The 20 women also participated in women's intramural sports. Clovia alumnae honored members who had earned a 3.0 grade point average or above at a scholarship dinner.

Alpha Chi Omega earns trophy for article writing

Contributing outstanding articles and information to Lyre, its national magazine, won the Lyre trophy for Alpha Chi Omega. Alpha Chis captured the DePauw Duo relay trophy for the third consecutive year against Kappa Alpha Theta. The pledge class made placemats for patients' trays at Memorial hospital and sang for an area rest home as service projects.

Members were represented in Student Senate, Angel Flight, Mu Phi Epsilon, Theta Sigma Phi, Omicron Nu and Kappa Phi. President of Sigma Alpha Eta and Student Governing Association were Alpha Chis. Social activities included a fall western party, a pledge Christmas formal, a spring Shipwreck Party and the annual Golden Lyre Ball. Members, together with Lambda Chi Alpha, were model United Nations delegates.

Chi O alumnae attend open house, tea, banquet

Celebrating its fiftieth anniversary, Chi Omega hosted an open house, afternoon tea and banquet for more than 200 alumnae. Also present was Elizabeth Dyer, national president. Portraying the Homecoming parade theme, "Sooner or Later," Chi Omega and Sigma Chi produced first place results in float competition.

Chi Os were chosen Military Ball queen, Pi Kappa Alpha and Acacia Dream Girls, Delta Upsilon sweetheart, National Drake Relays queen, honorary Pershing Rifles commander and Alpha Delta Theta president. Members also participated in intramural volleyball and kickball games and were active in Kappa Alpha Phi, Phi Kappa Phi, Mu Phi Epsilon, and Mortar Board.

Christmas activities included a stocking party and caroling at a Manhattan rest home. A party given by the Chi Omega pledge class envisioned its idea of "Heaven and Hell." The sorority's annual White Carnation Ball was in the spring.

Tri Delta alumnae meet for anniversary festivities

Tri Deltas and nearly 200 alumnae celebrated their fiftieth anniversary. Scrapbooks and letters from alumnae supplemented the festivities. At Christmas, members sent clothing to an orphanage in Viet Nam. By selling candy, they earned $150 for a scholarship.

In campus activities, Tri Deltas belonged to Sparks, Chimes, Mortar Board, Alpha Lambda Delta, Kappa Delta Pi and Phi Kappa Phi. They headed Home Economics Council and Angel Flight and acted as Board of Student Organizations secretary and Royal Purple editor. Two fraternity sweethearts, Cannonball queen and a Homecoming finalist were Tri Delta members.

DZs place in IF Sing, make house improvements

Singing "Delta Zeta Devotional" and "So's I Can Write My Name," DZs placed third in Interfraternity Sing. With the colors blue, green and gold, Delta Zeta refurnished and carpeted the lounge and carpeted the upstairs of the chapter house. At Christmas, DZ women adopted a family and gave toys, clothing and food. Pledges polished shoes at fraternities for a money-making project. Other activities included the pledge party with a "007" theme, the Joyeux Noel Christmas Formal and the spring Pink Rose Formal.

Members of Delta Zeta were represented in Angel Flight, Kappa Delta Pi, Chimes and Sparks. The chairmen of the Student Governing Association opinion sampling and health committees belonged to the sorority.

Gamma Phis take first in IF Sing, scholarship

Singing "Guided by Stars" and "I Talked to the Trees," Gamma Phi Beta placed first among sororities competing in Interfraternity Sing. Members also placed first in sorority scholarship rankings for spring 1965, receiving the province scholarship award. A new wing containing study rooms and a combination chapter and recreation room were completed.

Little American Royal queen and Military Ball queen were Gamma Phis. Six members were active in Angel Flight, three in Sparks and four in Chimes. At Christmas members donated toys to a camp for underprivileged children in Colorado. For one dance, a square dance caller provided atmosphere for a barn party.

Kappa Alpha Theta wins chapter excellence award

For outstanding advancement of its chapter in efficiency, University activities and scholarship, Kappa Alpha Theta received the national achievement award for its district at the annual convention. As a service project, the sorority made toys for the Institute of Logopedics in Wichita, the Theta's national philanthropy.

Kappa Alpha Thetas served in Student Senate, earned scholarship recognition at the Greek Week and Mortar Board banquets and were represented in Phi Kappa Phi, Mortar Board, Chimes and Angel Flight. Social activities included the DePauw Duo with Alpha Chi Omega and the Twin Star Formal.

Rectangular wood blocks are painted by Thetas annually and given with toys to the Institute of Logopedics in Wichita.

Kappa Delta's buff brick house at 1220 Centennial Drive, the first sorority house constructed northeast of campus, is the home of the 1965 intramural trophy winners. House activities include mothers' and fathers' weekends and the Emerald Ball.

Kappa Delta receives intramural, relays trophies

For scoring the most points and for participating in every intramural sport, Kappa Deltas won the 1965 intramural trophy. They also won a trophy for the Lambda Chi Alpha Chariot Relays. Turning from sports activities to a more leisurely life, KD pledges changed the house into a "Hobo Heaven," complete with a sliding train tunnel into the recreation room. In a contest there, the costumed hobo with the best corsage was declared winner.

Kappas refinish rooms, rank high in scholarship

Studying in a remodeled, wood panelled recreation room, Kappa Kappa Gamma members ranked second in sorority scholarship for spring 1965. The informal date room was redecorated in Old English taproom furnishings, with a color television donated by the fathers' club.

Celebrating their founding on the same campus with Pi Beta Phi, Kappas attended the annual Monmouth Duo. In other campus activities, Kappas placed first in swimming and ranked in kickball, volleyball and basketball. Barnwarmer and Greek Week queens and a Homecoming queen attendant were Kappas.

Smurthwaite women reign as campus, state queens

For the second consecutive year, a coed from Smurthwaite Scholarship House reigned as Homecoming queen. Other campus and state queen titles held by Smurthwaite members were Alpha Gamma Rho sweetheart, Kansas angus queen and Kansas dairy princess. The president of Mortar Board and members of Chimes, Sparks and Phi Kappa Phi lived in the cooperative scholarship house.

Among social activities in which the coeds participated were building a Homecoming float, introducing their new housemother at a spring tea, and hostessing the Scroll and Quill ball.

Fraternity life expands men's campus activities

Classes and tests during the day, meetings and studies at night—but somehow fraternities found time to squeeze in informal house parties, serenades, functions with women's living groups, picnics, formals and practices for Interfraternity Sing and Harlequinade. While stressing scholarship and requiring study hall for those below specific grade averages, fraternities took time to participate in service projects and to compete in men's intramurals. Members of the 23 campus fraternities attended weekly meetings.

ATOs, alumni celebrate national, chapter founding

Homecoming festivities coupled with the 100th year celebration of the national founding of Alpha Tau Omega brought alumni to the ATO house. Members also celebrated the 45th year of the chapter's founding by a picnic with the Sisters of the Maltese Cross during the fall. Mrs. Maude Thuman completed her first year as fraternity housemother. Spirited intramural competition helped the ATOs place first in football and basketball in their division. Other activities included rush parties, Christmas and Valentine's Day parties and the White Tea Rose Formal.

Beta Sigs give blood as community service project

More than 30 pints of blood were donated to a coed cancer patient by volunteers of Beta Sigma Psi as a community service project. A Lutheran organization, Beta Sigma Psi celebrated Reformation Day with a football game against Phi Kappa Theta. A queen contest and dance followed, commemorating Martin Luther's separation from the Catholic church.

Highlighting the year was the crowning of the Beta Sig sweetheart at the Gold Rose Formal. Members and dates competed for door prizes at the spring Casino Party. Religious Coordinating Council president, a student senator and Interfraternity Pledge Council president belonged.

Betas secure first place in football, tennis, track

For the third consecutive year, members of Beta Theta Pi won the intramural football championship with an undefeated season. The fraternity also placed first in intramural tennis singles and track, securing the fraternity over-all championship in intramurals. Varsity athletes in football, basketball and track were Betas.

Members were active in the honoraries of Blue Key, Scabbard and Blade and Steel Ring while one member was an exchange student at Justus Liebig University in Giessen, Germany. In fraternity scholarship, the house has ranked either first or second for the last 16 years.

As a community service project, the fraternity participated in a church preference drive to determine the number of residents belonging to churches and their denominations. The Betas won the Lambda Chi Alpha Chariot Relays for the eighth consecutive time and sponsored fall and spring house parties and a barbeque.

Delta Chi chapters meet for anniversary festivities

Members of Delta Chi celebrated their chapter's second anniversary by attending a three-chapter Founder's Day dinner at a country club in Topeka. The event also marked the seventy-fifth anniversary of the international Delta Chi fraternity. Operating as an independent house in 1963, Delta Chi was a colony until granted fraternity status in fall 1964.

Recipient of the most improved scholarship award from the Interfraternity Council, Delta Chis served as Social Coordinating Council chairman, Interfraternity Council president, Student Governing Association personnel director and varsity rowing team captain.

FarmHouse places first in grades for 41st time

For the sixth consecutive semester, FarmHouse received the first place scholarship trophy for the highest fraternity grade average for spring 1965. The chapter has earned the award 41 times since 1937. Members also won for the fifth consecutive year the National Interfraternity Council Summa Cum Laude Award given to member organizations 30 per cent above the all men's average.

Singing "Green Fields" and "Fair FarmHouse," members placed second in Interfraternity Sing. Preparations for the FarmHouse National Conclave to be held on campus in September were among major house activities. More than 400 alumni, actives and pledges will attend.

FarmHouse members participated in Blue Key, Phi Kappa Phi, Alpha Zeta, Steel Ring, Sigma Tau, Phi Eta Sigma, Phi Epsilon Kappa and Alpha Mu. Social activities included a fall barbeque, Halloween and Christmas parties, the Star and Crescent Formal and Sisters' Day.

Phi Delt entry captures top Harlequinade award

Combining talents with Delta Delta Delta, Phi Delta Theta took first place in Harlequinade 1965 with an old-fashioned melodrama entitled "Mississippi Mishap." The men observed national community service day by accompanying a group from Wharton Manor to the Eisenhower Museum in Abilene. For house improvement, Phi Delt pledges paved the fraternity parking lot. The living and recreation rooms also were remodeled.

Phi Delta Theta recaptured the Flush Bowl trophy from Sigma Alpha Epsilon and placed fourth in fraternity intramurals. A Phi Delt badminton team won first in doubles competition. Members were sports editor of the Collegian, treasurer of the senior class and Student Governing Association and chairman and business manager of Harlequinade. Phi Kappa Theta gives blood for local hospital

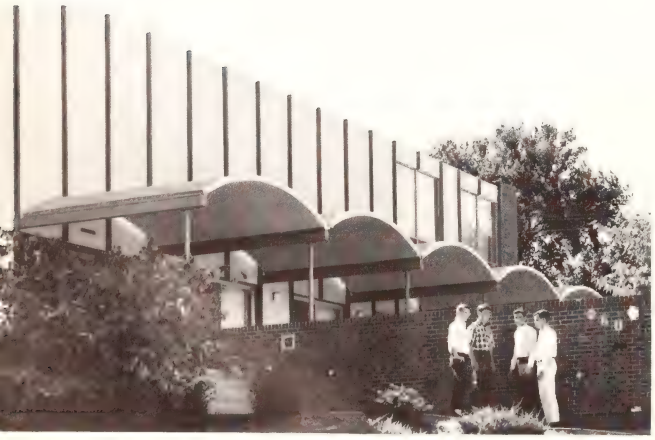
Accommodating 55 members, Phi Kappa Theta, 1965 College Heights, has a living room refurnished in red and blue hues.



Donating more than 45 pints of blood to the St. Mary hospital and providing toys for an Indian orphanage during Christmas were two service projects of Phi Kappa Theta. The annual Beta Sigma Psi-Phi Kappa Theta Reformation Day celebration marked Martin Luther's separation from Catholicism with activities including a football game, queen election, dinner and dance.

Social activities of the Catholic fraternity included the Indian Summer Party with a barbeque and the annual Christmas and spring formals. Dates were given favors of small goldfish in brandy snifters at the Fish Formal.

Participating in all intramural sports, Phi Kaps placed second in spring 1965 over-all softball standings. Holder of the badminton singles championship for the last three years was a Phi Kap. Other members were officers in Preveterinary Medical Club and Newman Club.

Phi Kaps relax, study and play cards while sunbathing on the patio of their modern style house built in 1958. The sliding glass doors which connect the patio and dining room often are left open to the patio for fall and spring parties and barbeques.

Sig Eps receive award for chapter participation

For excellence in all phases of chapter activities, members of Sigma Phi Epsilon received one of nine Outstanding Chapter awards given at the national conclave in New York City. With building additions totalling approximately $60,000, the fraternity doubled the size of its kitchen, furnished six new study rooms and added a basement television room. Other improvements included a new parking lot and additional kitchen equipment.

For social activities, members sponsored a western party, the Golden Heart Ball and a Founder's Day dinner. The men also entertained their fathers for a weekend.

Sig Eps have a special work week to finish cleaning their new rooms and hallways added to the house during the summer.

Triangle men redecorate, host high school students

Serving as weekend host to high school men attending Engineers' and Architects' Open House was a special project of Triangle fraternity. Approximately 35 men were guests of the fraternity during the March weekend. Triangle men also completely redecorated their front room, adding carpet and wood paneling, and repainted and refurnished other rooms in the house.

Participating in all intramural athletics, the men captured the free throw championship in the fraternity division. The annual Sweetheart Formal highlighted social activities of the year. Members attended a banquet and dance in connection with the fraternity's Founder's Day celebration in Junction City. Informal parties included an "angel or devil" party and a fall hayrack ride.

Outstanding members of the fraternity for architects, engineers and physical scientists were listed in Student Senate, Blue Key and Engineering Council. One of the smaller fraternities on campus, Triangle housed 35 men in a house overlooking Manhattan and the KS hill.

Smith cartons earn toys, men tally highest grades

Milk cartons were collected and exchanged for toys by men of Maitland E. Smith Scholarship House. The toys were distributed by Manhattan firemen to underprivileged children in the area. Academically, the house had the highest grade average for men's living groups for 1965 and also placed second in the annual College Bowl.

Social activities included exchange parties and picnics with other campus living groups, a Christmas semi-formal dance and a spring formal. Smith men participated in football, basketball, tennis, bowling and horseshoes intramurals and were represented in Sigma Tau, Phi Kappa Phi, Pi Tau Sigma and Phi Eta Sigma.

Peddling down main street, Smith men vow "We'll Get There Sooner or Later" with an independent Homecoming float.

Straube's refurnishings include draperies, carpet

Redecoration of the living room and an addition to the kitchen equipment greeted residents of Oscar E. Straube Scholarship House when they returned for fall semester. New living room accessories included draperies, carpet and chairs. A stainless steel unit was added to the kitchen. Straube men, who must maintain a 2.5 over-all grade average to remain in the house, were represented in Delta Mu Delta, Alpha Mu, Alpha Zeta, Sigma Tau, K-State Players and Orchesis.

Straube residents, living east of campus at 1221 Thurston, were second in independent division swimming and fourth in golf.

Conforming to the over-all theme of Homecoming, "Sooner or Later," Moore women build a parade float with Kappa Sigma.

Completion of Moore increases women's housing

With the completion and opening of Moore hall, a shortage of housing for women was relieved. Nine dormitories and three scholarship houses were operated by the University. A new food center for the northeast dormitory complex began service at the beginning of second semester for Moore and West. Increased facilities allowed housing officials to place only freshmen women in Boyd and West halls. Resident assistants, appointed by hall directors and approved by the dean of students office, supervised and counseled in men's and women's dormitories.

Boxing 5,000 cookies to send to a company of the first infantry division stationed in Viet Nam was part of the correspondence carried on during the Christmas season by Boyd hall women. Approximately 80 men wrote to the women most of the year. The yule season also found the women caroling at the Fort Riley hospital.

As part of a project to improve student-faculty relations, the dorm invited faculty members for lunch once each week. An old-fashioned Christmas formal, social functions with men's dormitories and fraternities and a fathers' weekend were part of the social calendar. The hall recognized all residents earning above a 3.0 for the semester at a scholarship dinner. Boyd hall intramural teams placed second in volleyball and third in kickball competition.

Located on the northeast corner of campus, Moore hall for women is the second dormitory in a four-dormitory complex.

Moore coeds discover that living in a dormitory men will eventually use means they must cope with problems like long beds.

University opens Moore as largest women's hall

Completing its first year on campus, Moore hall distinguished itself from other dormitories by its size and capacity. The building stood nine stories tall and housed 627 coeds, more than 300 more than the next largest women's dorm. To handle special problems involved in administering a unit so large, a hall governing board was formed to make all major decisions. The board consisted of the president of each floor and an executive council of dormitory officers. Information was relayed from meetings of the board by the floor president to residents.

Correspondence with a Navy cruiser stationed near the shore of Viet Nam was begun during first semester. An open house was held for male students, at which the men could inspect the hall's rooms and dance in the lobby of each floor.

Located on Petticoat Lane, Putnam hall was the scene for a large sign boosting the Wildcat team during football season.

Taking advantage of the change in men's visiting hours, a Putnam coed and her date study in the hall's living room.

Putnam council changes dormitory regulations

Rewriting policies in the hall constitution was a major concern for Putnam hall's officers' council. The group was composed of hall officers, corridor representatives and residence assistants. Changes introduced new hours for male visitors and new smoking regulations. The revisions became effective after approval in hall elections.

Under the direction of Mrs. Mabel Strong, the upperclass dormitory supported a needy family at Christmas. Coeds also sent food, clothing and letters to servicemen in Viet Nam. The women entertained their fathers at a dads' weekend. Royal Purple Queen Diane Small and attendant Kathy DeWeese represented Putnam in the annual yearbook beauty contest.

West women awaken mornings to construction sounds from work on one unfinished hall in a four-dormitory complex.

New cafeteria provides meals for West, Moore

For the first year, West hall residents ate meals in a new food center situated between West and Moore halls. Since the dormitory had been completed in fall 1962, the women had eaten in the Putnam and Boyd cafeterias. During fall semester, the residents participated in all intramural activities and won first place in the women's kickball tournament. West also built a Homecoming float with Goodnow hall, sponsored a Valentine dance and adopted an underprivileged family.

Janet Shade, an attendant to the Royal Purple queen, was sponsored by the dormitory. Earning a 4.0 average during her freshman year for 38 credit hours in pre-veterinary medicine, Kay Magby was honored by Mortar Board.

While washing and ironing are college necessities, coeds often find the chores a welcome relief from hours of studying.

Between Boyd and Putnam, Van Zile hall houses freshman and upperclass coeds. Built in 1926, it was the first women's hall.

Van Zile commemorates hall's 40th anniversary

Celebrating the fortieth anniversary of the construction of the hall, Van Zile women entertained at a spring tea. The hall's social calendar was filled with hour dances, an open house for Parents' Day, fathers' and mothers' weekends and a spring formal. A Christmas formal, Evergreen Enchantment, highlighted the party season for the dormitory's 138 women.

A popular service project on the campus, sending food and letters to men stationed in Viet Nam, was also adopted by Van Zile coeds. Besides participating in all women's intramurals, individual women from Van Zile were active as president of Gamma Delta, vice-president of Interdormitory Council, and members of Sparks and Union committees.

Sponsoring a dance for all students on the lawn by Van Zile, United Student Party campaigns for its candidates' election.

Five regular cooks prepare the food served to hungry Van Zile coeds. Women from West and Moore halls last year ate in the Van Zile cafeteria, but now are served in a food center which will provide meals for a proposed four-dormitory complex.

Residence hall group promotes dormitory week

Inter-dorm Week, which included a leadership day for dormitory officers, open houses in all women's halls and an all-dormitory picnic on the southeast campus field, was sponsored by the Association of Residence Halls. The group also promoted Inter-dorm Sing at Christmas and hosted the Midwest Association of College and University Residence Halls conference. Don Steeples, president of the association, was elected president of the national association at the annual conference at Southern Illinois University.

Each floor in the men's dormitories was assigned one head resident assistant and one regular resident assistant who acted as counselors to the more than 1,400 residents living in Goodnow, Marlatt, West Stadium and Waltheim.

Coeds move into Waltheim for counseling studies

Formerly an upperclass women's dormitory, Waltheim hall was reorganized during the summer months to provide apartment-style living for more than 60 men. Participating in social activities, Waltheim built a Homecoming float with Putnam hall, planned a dinner for the rowing team and invited dates to a sewer party. Donations to the rowing team's fund to purchase a new shell earned the men a certificate in the Square Inch Club. During the spring semester, 10 women moved into one section of Waltheim as part of a counseling center experiment to assess the effect of social interaction in acquiring social skills and developing personality.

Waltheim men participate in regular social functions with the coeds from the sociology department living in the dormitory.

Entertaining a Model United Nations speaker, Waltheim residents listen to Dr. John Stoessinger of New York University.

Formerly an all women's dormitory, Waltheim hall, 1436 Laramie, now houses both men and women. Although it is a University dormitory, it offers apartment-style living. Each apartment consists of a living room, bedroom, study area and bath.

Goodnow adds ice rink, library, sports rooms

Current magazines, newspapers and novels were available to men at Goodnow hall in a completely remodeled library. Located in the dormitory basement, the library was part of a recent renovation program that included recreation rooms for wrestling and judo. Residents played tennis and basketball on newly built courts which served as an ice skating rink in the winter.

Goodnow men were hosts for the area conference of college and university residence halls. They also planned the largest Christmas window decoration on campus.

With social and intramural programs on a floor basis, residents of Goodnow sponsored hour dances with women's living groups and also invited dates to a semi-formal dance. Groups at Goodnow heard talks on Viet Nam, participated in the Model United Nations meetings and reorganized radio station KSURH-FM. Outstanding men living in Goodnow included members of the varsity football and basketball teams and cadet commander of Air Force ROTC.

Promoting academic and social understanding, programs on radio KSURH-FM originate in a control room at Goodnow.

Providing accommodations for 600 men, Marlatt hall completes its second year. Dormitory residents eat in Kramer Food Center located between Goodnow and Marlatt. Members participated in Model UN and designed a hall coat-of-arms.

Marlatt 'talkathon' receives world press coverage

Participation in a "talkathon" with Moore hall gave Marlatt men world wide press coverage as residents spent 191 hours and 15 minutes on the telephone. Newspapers in New York, London and Stockholm published the story. Faculty members were invited to dinners and informal discussions through the dormitory's faculty association program. Members used a newly completed ice skating rink and a weight lifting room for recreation. A library was also added.

Dormitory library facilities, while small, often save a trip across campus for reference materials from Farrell library. A Governing Board proposal will permit treasury remaining at the close of second semester to be used for more books.

Student application fees finance the equipment which residents of Marlatt hall use. A wrestling pad, table tennis set, piano and TV set, in addition to the weights, are included in recreation equipment furnished for each men's residence hall.

Close to football action on fall days are the men who are housed in the west half of Memorial Stadium. Residents must walk three blocks to Kramer Food Center before and after each meal since a cafeteria is not provided in the dormitory.

West Stadium nabs first in intramural swimming

Intramurals played a major role for residents of West Stadium hall as their swimming team splashed its way to victory in the dormitory division. The hall basketball team also placed second. Big Eight swimmer of the year, Bob Duenkel, served as president of West Stadium.

Joining residents of Marlatt and Goodnow halls, the men sponsored a spring formal, "The Days of Wine and Roses," in Kramer Food Center. Working with Boyd hall, the men built a "Peanuts" float for Homecoming. They also constructed the traditional victory torch float.

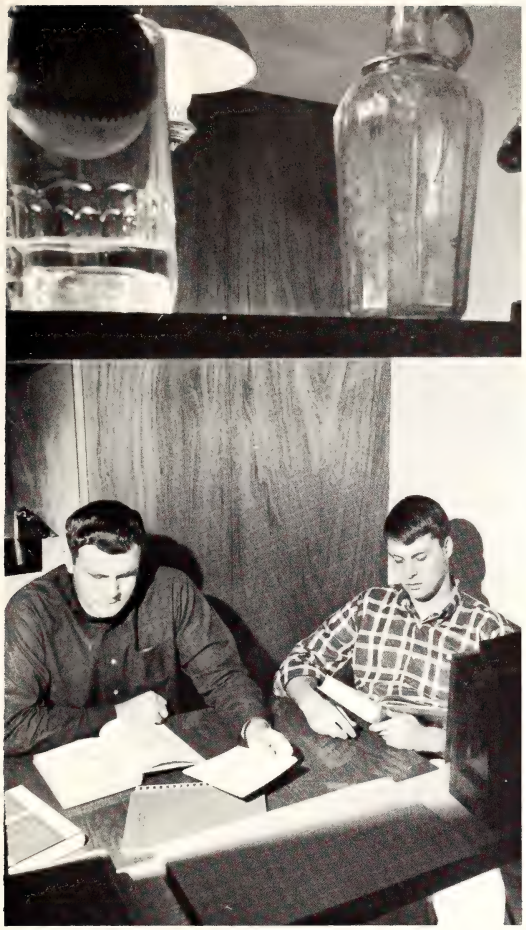
Off campus complexes offer apartment housing

Nearly 40 per cent of the University's students, mostly men and married students, lived in apartments. Coeds were required to be 21 before moving off campus. A recent apartment building boom provided student housing in many modern complexes. Although the apartment dweller was not restricted by the bonds of an organized living group, he did have the responsibility of cooking and housekeeping.



Silence prevails as roommates settle down to their studies. Many campus apartments follow modernistic style in furnishings.

One last check in the oven and then dinner can go on the table. Apartment dwelling calls for one roommate with chef talents.

Weekends offer a time for enjoyment with dates as men prepare and serve some coeds a tasty treat from bachelor hands.

Many Jardine Terrace wives are either full or part-time students, working to complete their undergraduate studies.

Jardine, trailer courts join for married housing

Jardine Terrace and Campus Trailer Courts united in the fall to act as one unified area for married students. Jardine was divided into six blocks of 120 families per block. Each block selected a mayor and two councilmen. A governing board of all mayors elected an executive mayor to preside over the entire area. Association of Married Students was formed to integrate married students into campus activities. Two off-campus married students, two student senators, the executive mayor and a Dames Club member met weekly to discuss the work.

Families of Jardine residents are provided spacious parking lots, laundramats, vending rooms and recreational areas.

Relaxing in their living room, Jardine residents enjoy such apartment conveniences as a carpeted lounge and television.

Children of Jardine residents play on the jungle jim provided in the recreational area behind the married student complex.

SPORTS

STUDENTS at basketball games show school loyalty. They hang on tensely after exerting all their energy on the tumultuous roar that accompanies a Wildcat rally. They are happy or sad, depending on who wins. Athletics perpetuates the name of a university. It is a sign of the beauty of physical excellence. It is a sign of excitement.

'Cats drop season opener in 19-7 loss to Indiana

Sophomore quarterback Vic Castillo smashed six school passing records, including one Big Eight mark, but the Wildcats dropped their season opener 19-7 to Indiana. Castillo lofted 43 passes, completing 20 for 248 yards.

A dropped punt, a fumble and a pass interception enabled Virgil Carter to toss three touchdowns for Brigham Young as the 'Cats were handed their second loss 21-3. Again the Wildcats fumbled on the first play from scrimmage as Colorado spoiled the Big Eight opener 36-0.

Missouri, winner over Florida in the Sugar Bowl, scored 21 second half points to defeat the Wildcats 28-6. Rated as high as first in the nation, Nebraska smacked the 'Cats 41-0. The 'Huskers lost to Alabama in the Orange Bowl.

Sooners, Jayhawks down 'Cats in shutout victories

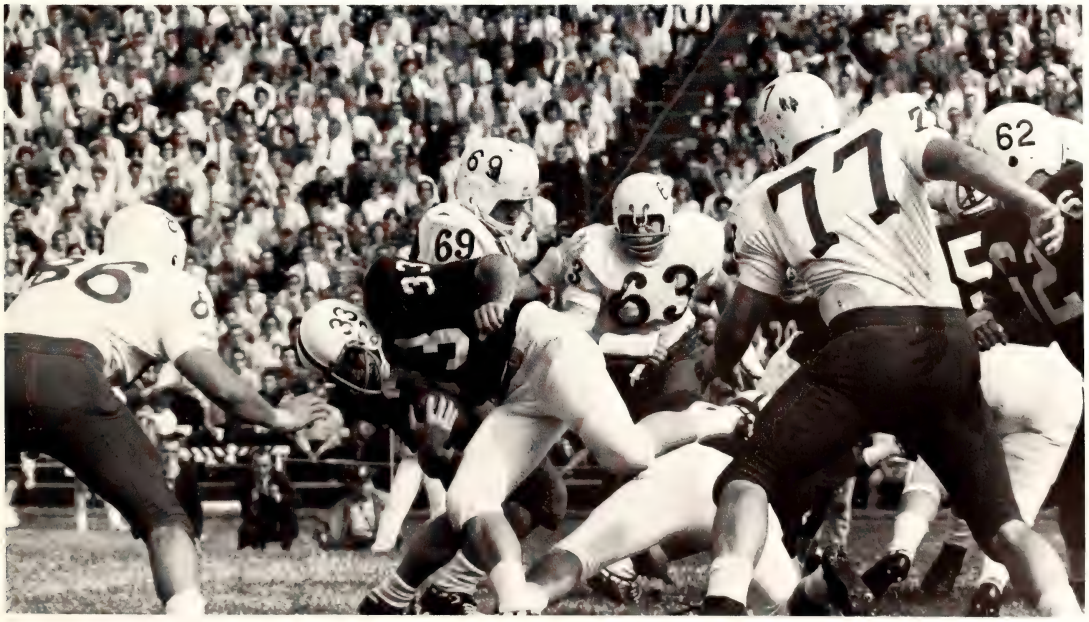
Oklahoma fumbled three times, suffered three pass interceptions and was penalized 95 yards but still shutout the 'Cats 27-0. A third straight shutout came in a 34-0 loss to KU. After fumbling on the first play from scrimmage, the 'Cats did not pose a serious scoring threat. Five interceptions and numerous injuries plagued the 'Cats.

Mike White engineered a second half comeback which fell short in a 24-14 loss to Cincinnati. With Vic Castillo dropped from his position as top Big Eight passer, Iowa State's Tim Van Galder replaced him by gaining 344 yards in total offense. The Iowa State game ended as a 38-6 'Cat loss.

At Stillwater, Okla., the season closed with a 31-7 defeat in which Oklahoma State won its first conference game. Sophomore John Vrooman raced 76 yards for the lone Wildcat touchdown.

Spilling KU quarterback Bill Fenton is tackle Pat Patton, while Art Strozier (80) and Bill Matan (84) head for the ball carrier.

In pushing his way through a giant Nebraska Cornhusker line, fullback Charlie Cottle leads 'Cat backs by racking up 74 yards.



'Cat yearlings tie Iowa, lose three gridiron games

Highlighting the freshman football season was a 14-14 tie with Iowa State, marking the closest the young 'Cats have come to winning since their 0-0 tie with KU in 1960. Featuring an expanded four-game schedule, the frosh were dumped 38-14 in a come-from-behind victory by Nebraska. KU intercepted five passes in winning 28-0, and Oklahoma opened up the second half with two touchdowns to breeze past the frosh 27-7.

Basketball team secures third place in Big Eight

Battling back from a sixth place finish in the Big Eight last season, the Wildcat basketball club climbed to third in the conference. Coach Tex Winter's squad compiled a 14-11 record in winning nine of 14 conference games. Four of the team's five league losses came against nationally ranked Kansas and Nebraska. The season brought Winter's record to 226 games won and 101 lost.

Coach Tex Winter, winner of seven conference championships in 10 seasons, offers instruction to officials as well as players.

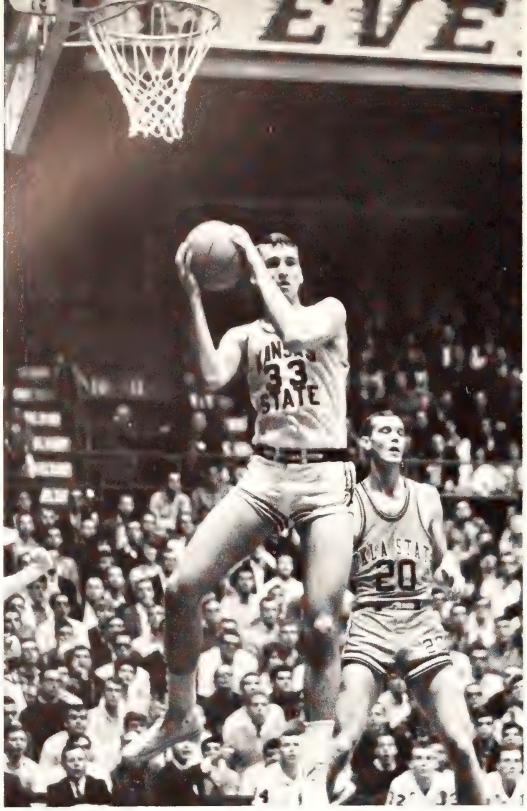
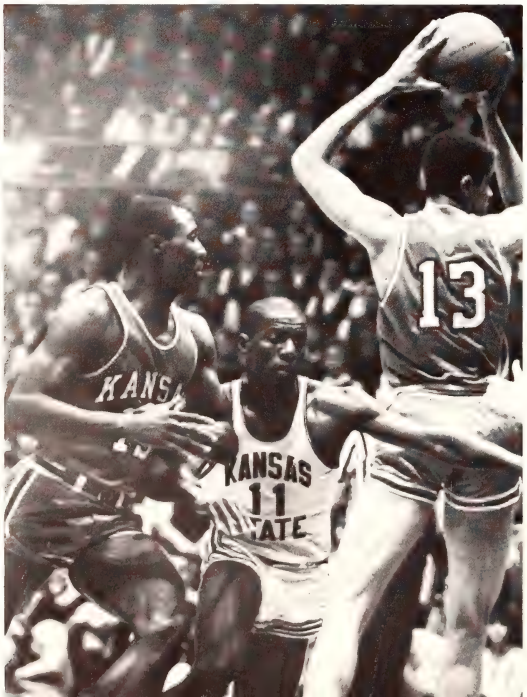
Kansas won the Big Eight championship; Nebraska was second; K-State finished third; Oklahoma took fourth; Colorado and Iowa State tied for fifth; Oklahoma State placed seventh; Missouri was eighth.



Earl Seyfert, a member of the Big Eight academic team, snares a key rebound in the 'Cats 50-44 victory over Oklahoma State.

Crying for help, all-American Walt Wesley finds no one to throw to, as Sammy Robinson prevents help from Jo Jo White.



High-flying, six-foot guard Dennis Berkholtz drives in for a goal. He scored 11 points in a 73-65 win over Stanford.

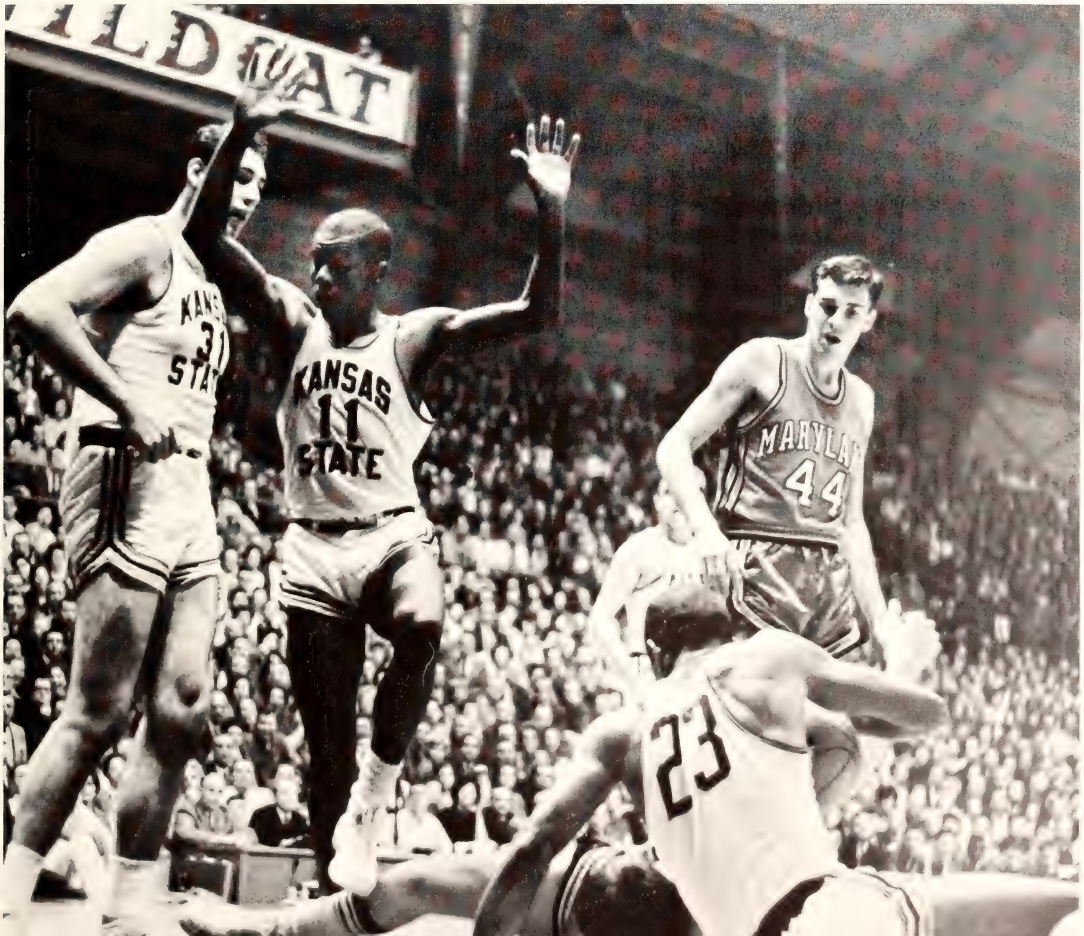
'Cat team starts slow, ranks fifth in tourney

With one of the tallest teams in collegiate basketball, the Wildcats began the season with a four-game losing skein. The 'Cats fell victim to Creighton and Tulsa, also dropping Sunflower Double-header decisions to St. John's and Maryland. Juggling the starting line-up, Tex Winter found a combination that blasted Indiana 103-76. Nick Pino, 7-foot, 1-inch, 270-pound sophomore, tallied 27 points and 23 rebounds.

The 'Cats took a 3-5 mark in the Big Eight tournament, after victories over Texas Tech, 74-68, and Stanford, 73-65. Leading 57-55 with six minutes left to play, the 'Cats dropped the tourney opener to KU 69-63. Two 20-point victories over Colorado and Missouri gave them fifth place.

Guard Bob George displays his defensive abilities while leading offense. He scored 19 points in a 70-63 loss to Tulsa.

Scrambling for the basketball, Roscoe Jackson ties up a Maryland player, as Sammy Robinson seemingly indicates a "touchdown." In the 63-56 'Cat loss, Tex Winter later found a winning combination that took seven of the next eight games.



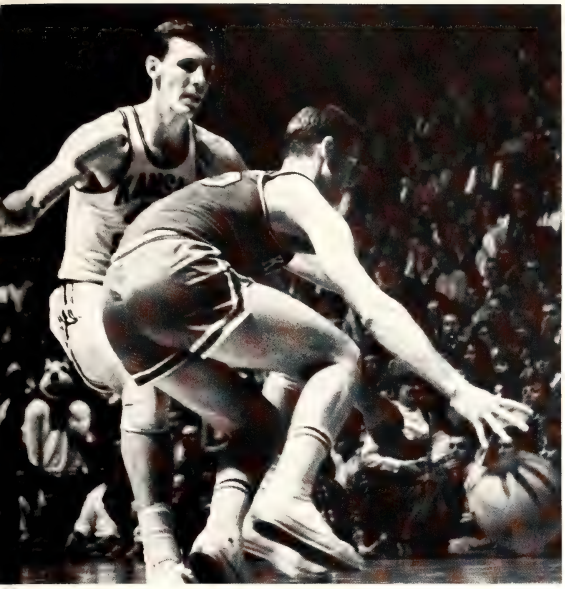
Most experienced in the conference, the Wildcat bench is occupied by eight players who have been starters at some time.

Hustling down court for an uncontested lay up, forward Jim Hoffmann tries to halt the Jayhawk's conquest of the Wildcats.

Wildcats gain early wins, bow to favored Nebraska

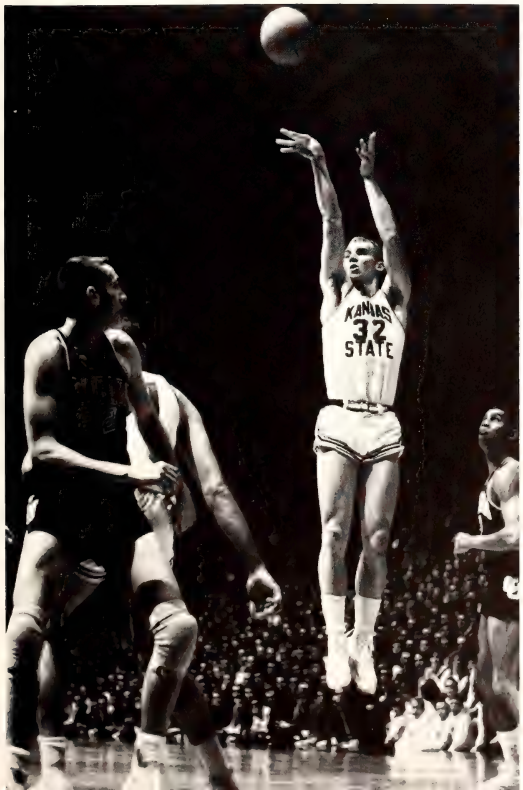
Coasting to a 78-59 victory over Missouri and a 67-47 win over Oklahoma State, the Wildcats ran into title favorite Nebraska. Four Huskers scored in double figures to stomp the 'Cats 82-71. KU moved to an early 30-11 margin before 17,000 fans at Lawrence to defeat the 'Cats 69-61. In a non-conference battle with fifth ranked Loyola of Chicago, the Ramblers overcame a 12-point second half deficit to win 76-70.

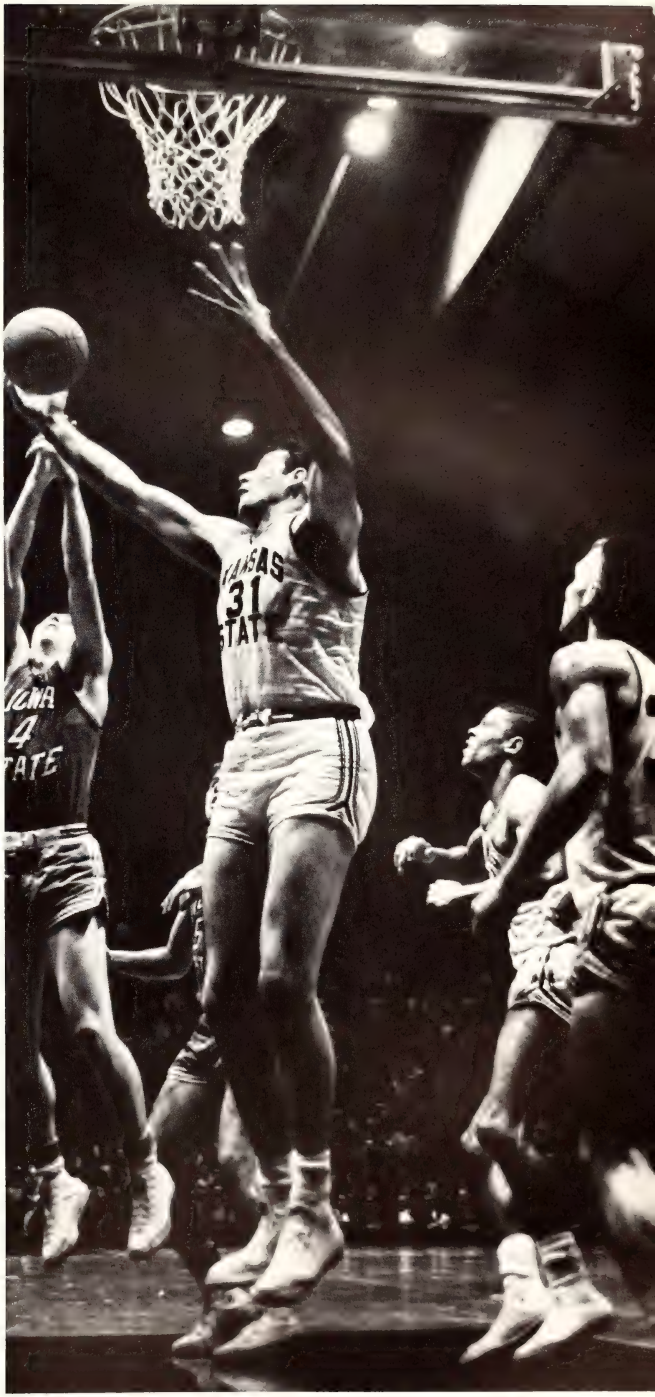
Sophomore Earl Seyfert tallied 16 points per game in the next six games, five of which were home contests, to ignite a six-game winning streak. Oklahoma ended the Wildcat surge with an 80-77 upset at Norman. Title hopes vanished with a 79-69 loss to Nebraska, despite a 20-point outburst by guard Dennis Berkholtz. KU clinched a tie for the Big Eight title by smacking the 'Cats 68-55 before a sellout crowd at Ahearn. A 75-73 win at Iowa State closed the season.



All-conference guard Delvy Lewis of KU finds room scarce as he is harassed by 6-foot, 10-inch Wildcat center Roy Smith.

Finding an opening, Galen Frick pops in a 20-foot jumper, while Colorado Buffaloes find themselves outwitted in the play.

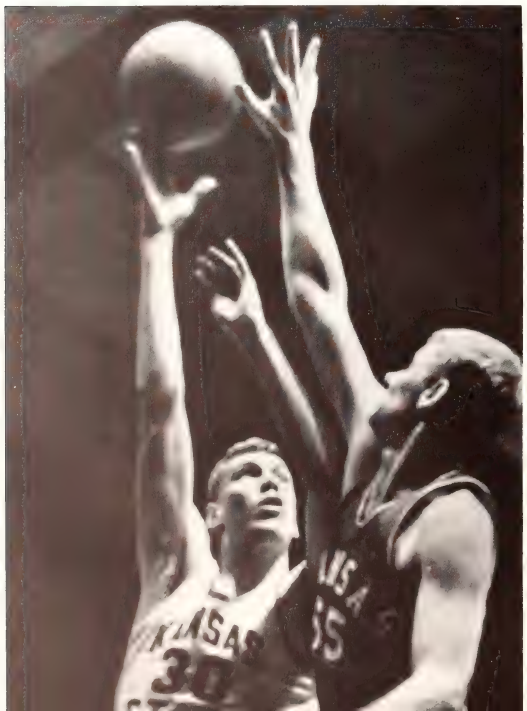




Swiping a rebound from the out-stretched hands of an Iowa State man, Nick Pino battles conference rebounding leaders.

Double trouble is ahead for George Shupe as the 'Cats battle back from a 43-26 half-time deficit against the Kansas frosh.

Barely clearing the out-stretched arm of a KU defender, Steve Unruh scores two points in the frosh 81-69 loss to Jayhawkers.



Freshman team scores two wins in cage action

Salvaging victories over Nebraska and Missouri, the Wildcat freshmen settled for a 2-6 seasonal mark. George Shupe's 18 points and Nebraska's poor shooting accounted for a 67-55 'Cat win over the young Huskers. Mike Barber's 21 points, Roy Fraction's 14 points and 17 rebounds prompted a 77-67 conquest of the Missouri frosh.

Wrestlers gain two seats in NCAA championships

Placing two wrestlers in the NCAA championships, the 'Cats posted an 8-7 season record, including a first in the four-team Ohio State tourney. Jerry Cheynet earned an 11-3-1 mark and finished sixth in the 137-pound NCAA class. Bill Brown placed sixth nationally in the 152-pound contest. The squad was sixth in the conference meet. Cheynet ranked third, and Brown and Larry Elder fourth.

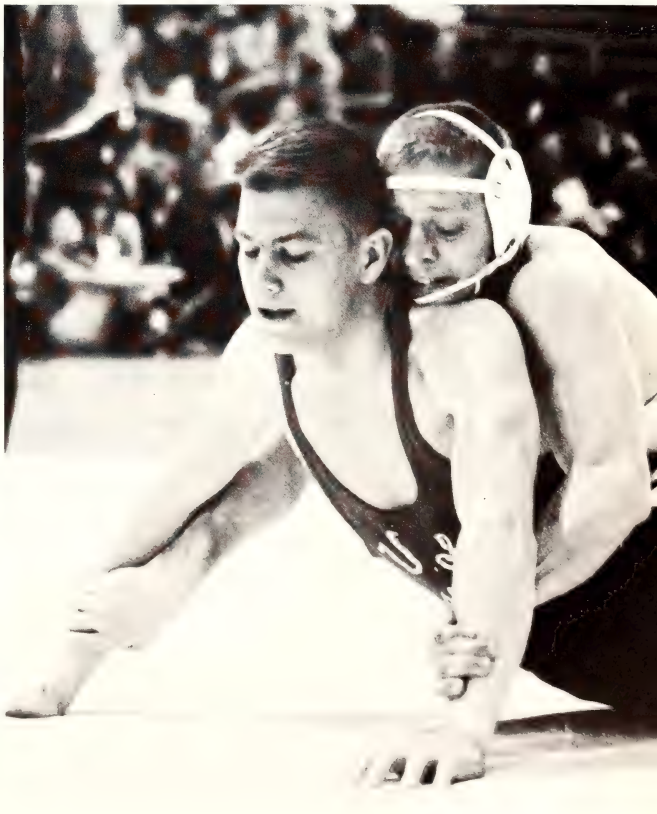
With wins in seven weight classes, including four pins, 'Cat grapplers topple the Jayhawks 29-6 to win a home dual.

Logging valuable riding time in the 137-pound, semi-finals of Big Eight wrestling championships, Jerry Cheynet is third.



Tank competitors smash school, conference marks

Smashing nine school records, including one Big Eight mark, Wildcat swimmers finished fifth in the Big Eight swim meet and 6-4 in dual competition. Bob Duenkel, only 'Cat first place winner in the meet, bettered the conference 200-yard backstroke mark. The tankers captured six of 11 events to register the first win over Kansas in eight years. Tom Hanlon and Duenkel each set two school records in a 55-40 victory over Missouri. Hanlon toppled the NCAA 60-yard freestyle mark and broke two other school records in an 86-28 romp over Oklahoma State.

Inexperienced gymnasts place high in dual meets

Despite the absence of experienced gymnasts, the Wildcat gymnastics team earned a 7-4 dual meet record. Coach Frank Thompson guided the team to its thirteenth winning season in the past 15 years. The only Wildcat losses came against Big Eight powers Colorado, Kansas and Nebraska and nationally ranked Iowa State, the Big Eight gymnastics champion. Allen Talley, participating in the six-event, all-around competition, led the Wildcat team's scoring.

Baseball climbs from Big Eight cellar to seventh

New uniforms, a new coach and new players at all but three positions put life into the baseball squad. The team climbed out of the cellar spot it had held four times in five seasons. Wildcats finished seventh in the Big Eight with a 6-13 mark. A shortage of experienced pitchers and a defense which committed 63 errors, giving up 45 unearned runs, were Wildcat weaknesses.

In his initial coaching season, Bob Brasher led the squad to an 8-18 mark, taking two of three games from Iowa State, Kansas and Oklahoma--something the 'Cat team had not done in 12 years. Experience began to show as the 'Cat offense averaged almost five runs per game in conference play. The 'Cats polished off the season by winning five of their final seven games.

First baseman Joe Beck was named to the District Five and Big Eight all-star squads. He led the team with a .361 batting average and was third in the conference in home runs. Third baseman Stu Steele was fifth in the conference in hits and was also named to the all-Big Eight squad.

Missouri finished first in the Big Eight, followed by Nebraska, Oklahoma State, Iowa State, Colorado, Kansas, Kansas State and Oklahoma.

Coach Bob Brasher looks the situation over before sending in right hander Dennis Erkenbrack for pitching relief work.

Brasher accepts position as 'Cat baseball coach

After five years of scouting for professional baseball organizations, 32-year-old Bob Brasher took over the helm as Wildcat baseball coach to bring the 'Cats up from the Big Eight cellar. Brasher replaced Ray Wauthier who resigned after 15 seasons as Wildcat baseball coach.

Entering his club into the conference race, Brasher led the 'Cats in taking two of three games from Iowa State. However, the club then went into an 11-game losing streak. Oklahoma State, Nebraska, Missouri and Colorado topped the 'Cats during the slump. Not until gaining a split in a non-conference double-header with Washburn did they regain winning form. The team moved into seventh place by winning two games from Kansas and two from Oklahoma.

Halting further advance of pitcher Rick Rambin is coach Bob Brasher during a two-game series with Washburn. The Wildcats split the mid-season double-header with the Ichabods of Topeka, running the 'Cat non-conference record to 2-5 for the season.

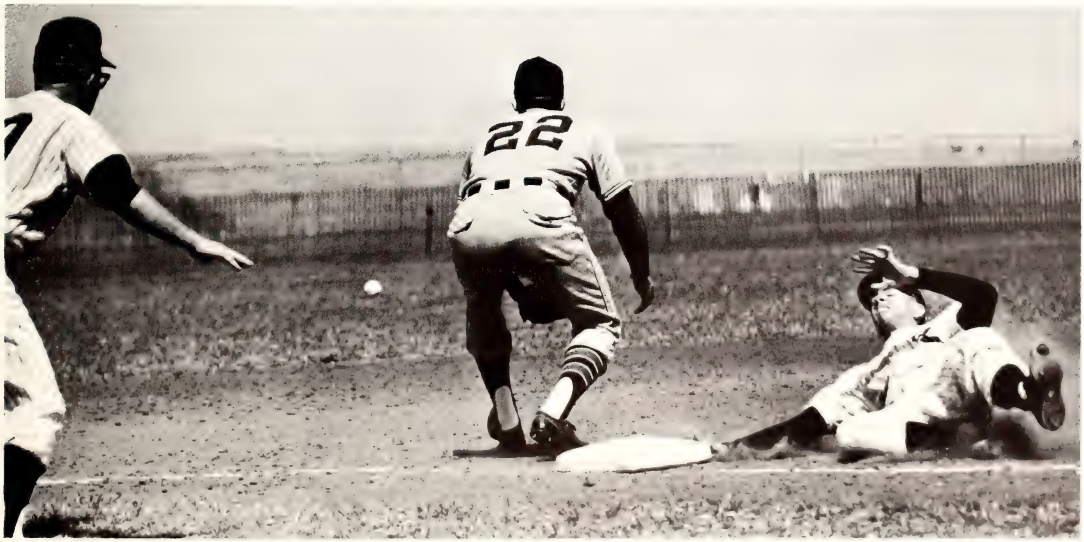
Taking advantage of a late throw from the outfield, Wildcat second baseman Jim Scheffer slides safely to third during the conference opener with Iowa State. The 'Cats dropped the first game of the series but rebounded to sweep the final two.



Edging out teammate Conrad Nightingale, Charles Harper spurs the Wildcats to a 1-2 finish in the mile run at a meet with Air Force Academy. The 74-71 victory marked the first time in two seasons the Wildcats had taken a dual meet.

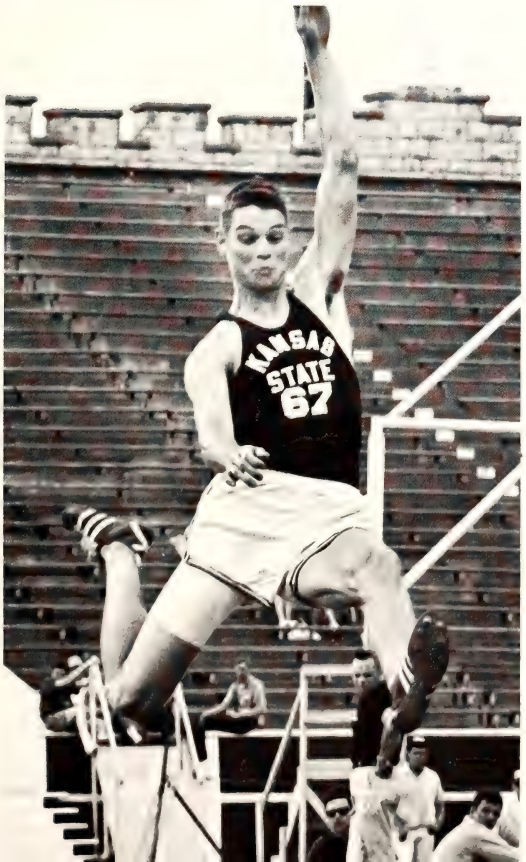
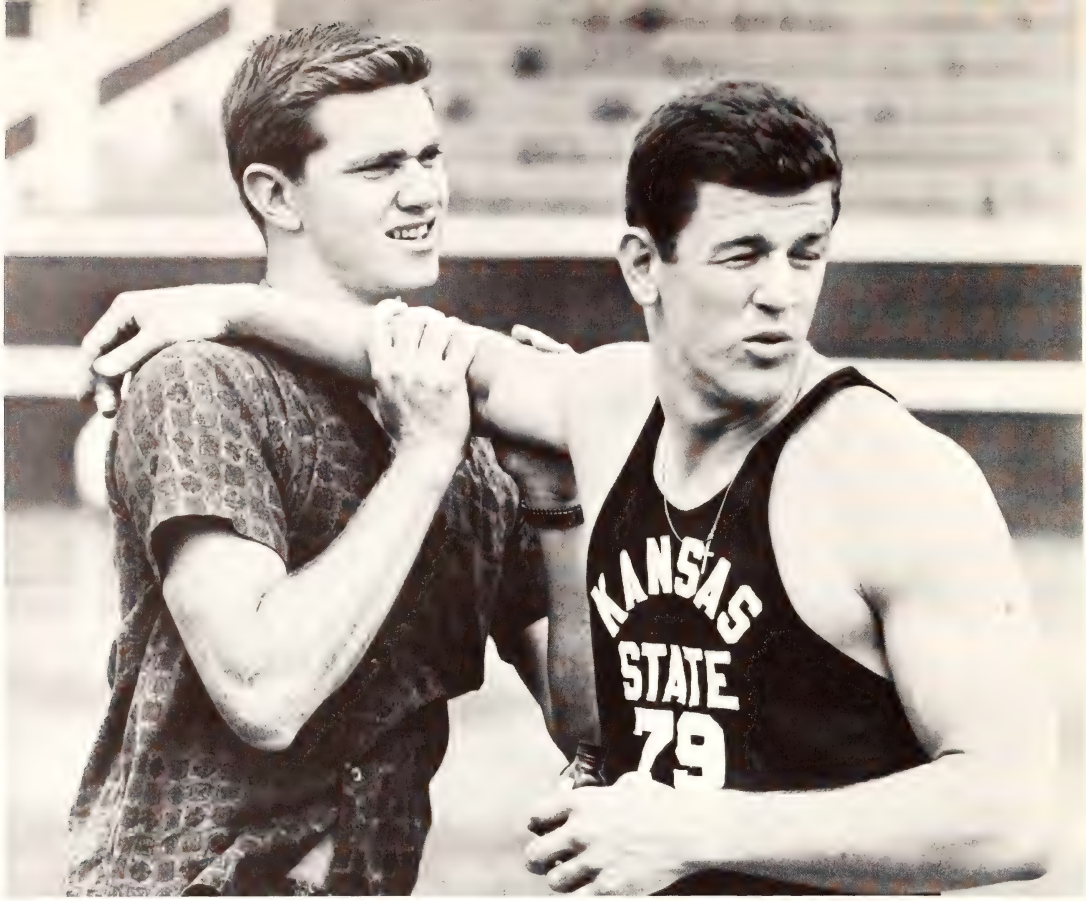
Gliding into the broad jump sand pits, Bob Hines holds title as the team's Most Inspirational Player for the 1964-65 season.



Track team ranks high in individual performance

Outstanding individual performances highlighted DeLoss Dodd's second season as Wildcat track coach. Javelin ace Bill Floerke launched the spear 266 feet, 5½ inches at the Kansas Relays. His throw was the best toss in the nation for the year. Don Payne hit a peak in the U.S. Track and Field Federation meet with a 46.2-second clocking in the 440-yard dash. His time surpassed Coach Dodd's school record in addition to the West Coast meet mark. Wildcat thinclads ranked 1-2 in dual meets. They suffered losses to Oklahoma 87-58 and Missouri 91½-52½ but topped Air Force Academy 74-71.

Finishing seventh in the Big Eight conference meet at Lincoln, Nebr., the trackmen scored 42 points, 32 of which came in the javelin and 440 relay events. Floerke took first in the conference javelin event, and the 'Cat's Bud Roper was third. Payne finished with the second fastest 440 relay time with Bill Selbe close behind in third. The Wildcat 440-yard relay team placed fifth in the conference meet. Bob Hines ranked fifth in the broad jump, and Norm Yenkey ran fifth in the three-mile event.



Soothing the arm that launched the nation's top javelin throw, Bill Floerke has just won the event from the Air Force Academy.

High flying Steve Rogers clears a crossbar in competition with Air Force Academy as 'Cats placed first in nine events.

'Cats outscore Cyclones in Big Eight track meet

Wildcat thinclads escaped the cellar position in the Big Eight meet with strong finishes in the 440-yard dash and javelin throw. The 42 'Cat points bested only Iowa State, which earned 13. Kansas won the meet with 100 points. It was followed by Oklahoma, 91; Missouri, 84; Oklahoma State, 70; Nebraska, 64; and Colorado 63. Only Wildcat first place finisher in the Midwest Federation Track and Field Meet was Bill Selbe who won the 440-yard dash.

Racing toward a meet record, co-captain Bill Selbe is clocked at 48.0 seconds in the 440-yard dash against Air Force Academy.

Wildcat sprinter Don Payne holds the University mark in the quarter-mile, topping the record Coach Dodds set in 1959.

DeLoss Dodds, who helped establish the school mile relay record and who holds the indoor 440 dash mark, is track coach.

Distance runners sweep Big Eight championship

Earning the Big Eight title, a seventh place finish in the NCAA cross country championships and a 3-0 over-all mark highlighted the cross country season. 'Cats swept six of the top eight positions in both a dual with Missouri and a triangular with Wichita State and Drake. Runners also won the top six places against Nebraska. This season was DeLoss Dodds' second as coach.

Charles Harper led the squad, placing twelfth in the NCAA meet and fourth in the Big Eight meet. He broke the school record set by Conrad Nightingale. Nightingale, who finished fifth in the conference meet, also broke his own record to establish a course record in the dual meet against Missouri. Wildcats took second in the six-team State Federation meet, one point behind Kansas University of Lawrence.

Nightingale sets record; runners win NCAA fifth

Conrad Nightingale bettered the meet record in the mile, and Don Payne tied for first in the 440-yard dash when the Wildcats placed fifth in the NCAA track championships. Paced by Payne, the 'Cats finished fourth in the Big Eight meet. The sprinter toppled the Big Eight 440 mark and anchored the mile relay as the Wildcats tallied 28 points, highest since 1935. In a triangular at Lawrence, Nightingale posted the fastest collegiate mile of the indoor season. 'Cat runners outdistanced defending champion Oklahoma State to win the K-State Invitational Indoor Relay.

Netmen tie for fifth place in Big Eight tennis play

Wildcat netmen completed the 1965 season with ten wins and eight losses and finished in a four-way tie for fifth in the Big Eight tennis tournament. The young team, composed of a senior, a junior and three sophomores, was led by junior Bob Hauber who compiled a 15-3 dual season record. Hauber played in the number four position. Top doubles team combination was Hauber and Mike Kraus, who ranked 13-5.

Four of the ten victories were shutouts, including a pair of 7-0 victories over Washburn. Wildcats finished with a 3-4 conference dual mark. The squad opened the season with three losses but defeated its final four Big Eight foes.

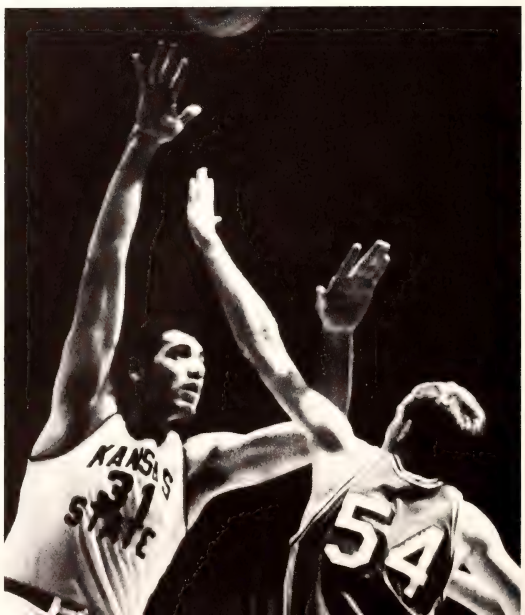
Athletic Council begins planning football stadium

Appointment of F. O. Wolfenbarger, associate engineer for the planning and design of a new football stadium, was accepted by the Athletic Council. The 12-member council, under chairman C. Clyde Jones, appointed a stadium planning committee to work with Wolfenbarger. Recommendation was made to President McCain for the reappointment of football coach Doug Weaver and his staff. Regular business of the council included consideration of budget items of the 10-sport athletic program and approval of nominees to receive athletic letters in each sport.

Announcement of the hiring of a full-time football recruiter was made by the Athletic Council after the 'Cats finished 0-10.

Evidence that the 'Cats may become a national basketball power is seen in Nick Pino, leading scorer and rebounder.



Drillers, Betas, Pawnees capture intramural titles

Earning 1143½ points, the Drillers captured the 1965 independent intramural title. Brand X was runner-up with 781 points. Junior AVMA placed third, scoring 715 points. The Drillers won independent touch-football, horseshoes, basketball, free-throw, wrestling and track.

Beta Theta Pi won its second consecutive fraternity crown, earning 1036½ points. Runner-up Delta Tau Delta scored 961 points. Delta Upsilon scored 926 points for third place. Betas won touch-football, handball singles, badminton, track and free-throw. They tied for first in horseshoe doubles contention.

Pawnee walked off with the dormitory title with 812 points. Comanche took second with 640 points, and Marlatt's third floor finished third with 620. Pawnee took first in dormitory touch-football, basketball, badminton singles and doubles and volleyball.

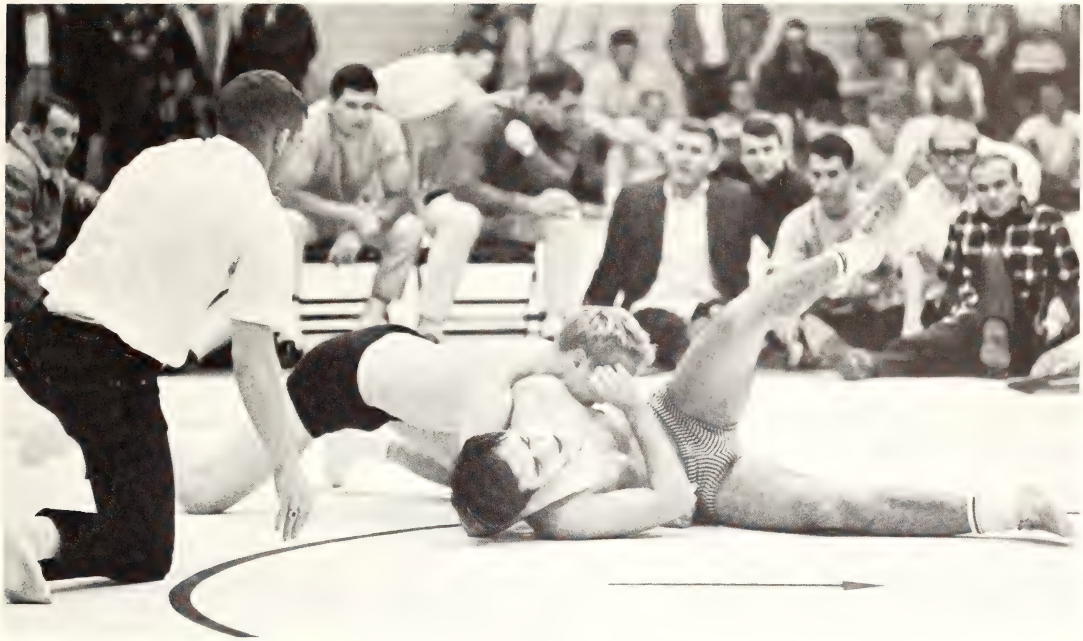
High jumping is one of 10 events in intramural track. Competing in the independent division, Drillers topped all jumpers with a leap of 5 feet, 10 inches. Lambda Chi Alpha and Marlatt's fourth floor won in fraternity and dormitory divisions.

Waltheim, Junior Vets, SAE lead in intramurals

Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Waltheim hall and Junior AVMA led their respective divisions through 10 men's intramural sports, beginning 1965-1966 competition. The Sig Alphs scored 487 points to win fraternity basketball, handball and horseshoe crowns. Beta Theta Pi was second ranked in the incompleted season, earning 441 points. The Betas were fraternity touch-football champions. Waltheim tallied 476 points to lead dormitory entrants with a badminton victory, while Goodnow hall's sixth floor was second with 406 points. Although they captured no championships, Junior AVMA players compiled 400 points to lead a field of independent teams.

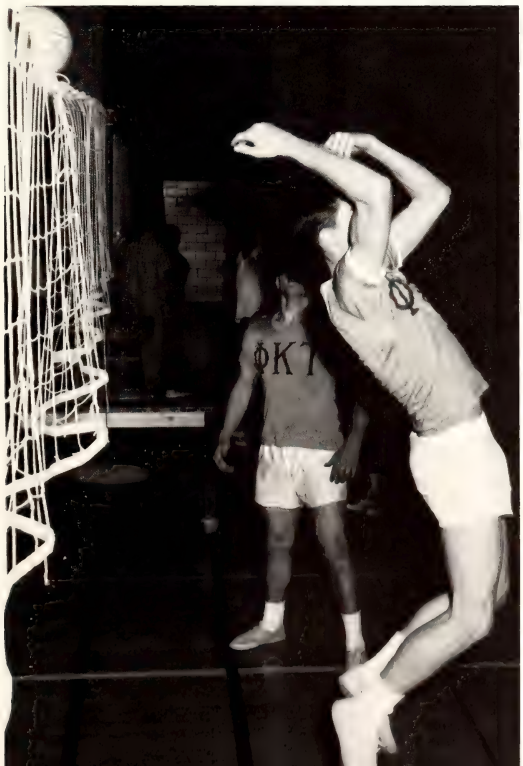
Jubilant members of Beta Sigma Psi celebrate capturing the 1965 fraternity division volleyball crown over Phi Delta Theta.

Fierce competition for the rebound is won by the Alpha Tau Omega center in the play-offs for the fraternity basketball title.



Wrestlers lock in combat as part of nearly 140 men in a three-day mat tourney. Acacia won the fraternity division and Drillers the independent-dormitory field. The spring 1965 matches were the first time wrestling points were awarded since 1952.

Slamming a back-handed return, Phi Kappa Tau competes for the fraternity volleyball title. Beta Theta Pi won the division.



Lobbing the birdie, a man competes in badminton intramurals. Phi Kaps, Pawnee and Mechanical Engineers won singles.

Sandra Hick, in her third year as director of women's intramurals, coordinates activities in the eight-sport coed program.

Off-Campus Women battle for control of the ball during a 16-5 victory over Kappa Alpha Theta to win the basketball title.

Kappa Deltas secure women's intramural crown

Kappa Delta captured during spring 1965 the intramural trophy from Women's Athletic Association. Van Zile and Off-Campus Women were runners-up. Off-Campus Women took victories in softball and basketball, Boyd hall in kickball and track, Kappa Kappa Gamma in swimming and Van Zile in volleyball. During fall play, West hall won in kickball and Kappa Kappa Gamma repeated in swimming. Alpha Chi Omega later captured the volleyball title. Coed gymnasts placed second in a quadrangular at Washburn.

Chasing after the loose ball, Off-Campus Women capture the intramural basketball crown for the third consecutive year.

Larry Cornwell's 188 Tri-State Conference average helped earn 'Cat bowlers a spot in a national intercollegiate tourney.

Bowlers go to nationals, win Tri-State conference

When clinching the championship in the Tri-State Bowling Conference, Wildcat bowlers earned the right to compete in the National Intercollegiate Bowling Tournament in Chicago, Ill. The bowlers compiled a mark of 31-17 in meets with Kansas, Nebraska, Wichita State and Oklahoma State. Harry Bond earned a position on the all-star team with a 188 series at the spring 1965 Big Eight tourney.

Wildcat women bowlers finished third in the Tri-State Conference, behind Oklahoma State and Kansas. Nancy Peterson led the team to a 16-32 season with a 150 average. The 1966 Big Eight meet was conducted here in the spring.

Rowing crew finishes second undefeated season

Having purchased a new shell, "The 150," and a coaching launch, "The Lady K," the Wildcat rowing crew finished its second season undefeated in 1965 spring dual competition. A second shell, "Wildcat I," also arrived for competition. The crew outdistanced St. Thomas of Minnesota by 10 seconds to open home competition, defeated Minnesota's oarsmen by 10 lengths and finished the season with a three-quarter length win over Lincoln Park Boat Club in Chicago. Coach Don Rose led the crew to fourth place in the first Mid-America Championship Regetta at Purdue.

1966 Rowing Team—Frederic Wisegarver, William E. Gamble, William E. Buzenberg, Jettie F. Condray, Charles T. Bronzan, Richard E. Graner, Jack E. Ellithorpe, William W. Middleton, Michael J. Crubel.

Rowers compete in their new eight-oar shell, "The 150." The $3000, 60-foot vessel was purchased from 150 $20 contributions.

First year crew members learn the fundamentals of rowing in afternoon practice sessions in the "Northerner" at Tuttle Creek.

Forty-five rifle teams competed in the Turkey Shoot, the nation's largest National Rifle Association smallbore indoor meet.

Wildcat rifle team places sixth in Turkey Shoot

Dethroned as K-State Turkey Shoot champions, the Wildcat rifle team placed sixth in competition. West Virginia, ranked first in the nation, won the meet in a field of 248 shooters. With two all-American nominees, Wildcat shooters captured fifth in an 11-team field at an intercollegiate sectional meet at Missouri and sixth in a 24-team field at the Oklahoma State Invitational. Wildcat women in their first year of competition placed first in meets at Missouri, Oklahoma and K-State by rating high in target accuracy.

CLASSES

A FAMILIAR face triggers more memories than any other sign of college years. It may be the face of one who became your best friend, or someone whose name you never knew. Chain reactions can lead from a face to a class to what you did after class one day. You can recapture memories 5, 10, 20 years old from just the prodding of a face.

Senior class officers Charles Boles, vice-president; Valerie Hoover, secretary; Keith Stuessi, president; and Douglas Powell, treasurer work to establish a senior scholarship fund with the money the class raised from selling senior activity cards.

Activity card fee finances expanded senior program

Included in senior class social functions were a fried chicken picnic and a keg party. Special senior sections at the last home football and basketball games featured senior male cheerleaders. Price of senior activity cards was raised, entitling each buyer to a sweatshirt as well as a traditional purple derby and senior button. Money from the activity cards was used to give a monetary gift to the Endowment Association for a senior scholarship fund.

Underclassmen represent multi-cultural interests

Breaking last year's record enrollment by more than 1,000, the undergraduate class numbering 9,403 represented all 50 states including the Panama Canal and the Canal Zone. Out of the 57 countries represented, undergraduates included those from China, India, Nigeria, Iran and the Philippine Islands.

Record enrollments were set by the freshman and sophomore classes. Freshmen topped their enrollment last year by more than 500 as 3,217 new students filed through registration. The next largest undergraduate class, the sophomores, registered 2,274, increasing by approximately 150. Dropping for the last two years, the junior class fell in enrollment by 20 students.

Graduate school enrollment represents 57 nationalities

Fifty seven countries were represented by students in graduate school. Of the approximately 1,300 persons enrolled, China, India and Nigeria, respectively, claimed the largest number of students. Graduate enrollment was highest during the summer. Teachers working toward advanced degrees found summer most convenient for research and study.

Of the 1,041 men and 237 women in graduate school, most were awarded fellowships by the National Defense Education Act. Also awarded for graduate study were fellowship grants worth $74,000 from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and National Science Foundation.

IN RETROSPECT . . .

Now that the 1966 Royal Purple is finished, it becomes another of the many "signs of 66." As a reference book and history of a school year, the Royal Purple will grow in value as the years pass. Many persons have helped compile this book, and it is impossible to mention everyone. However, special thanks are due for the advice of Jack Backer, who served his first year as adviser, and C. J. (Chief) Medlin, who retired after advising 30 consecutive All-American Royal Purples. Of course, without the untiring help of the editorial staff, production of the yearbook would have been impossible. An indispensable part of a yearbook is its pictures. Photographers Jim Garver, David von Riesen, Laurence Blaker, Don Richards of Topeka, and the Studio Royal deserve praise for their fine quality black and white and color pictures. Other recognition is due Bob Snider and his business staff; Leroy Towns for his opening pages' copy; Frank Wright and American Yearbook Company; the Durand Company for advice on covers; Jan Heidrick and Ruth Foster, Student Publications secretaries; and Gary Haynes, Royal Purple queen judge.
